HITLER BECOMES GERMAN CHANCELLOR

COMISH SENDS BEER BILL TO SENATE FLOOR

HOPE FOR PASSAGE THIS SESSION IS HELD OUT

Washington, Jan. 30 (AP)—Speedy action such as the senate seldom sees, tonight had given the Collier-Blaine bill to legalize 3.05 percent beer and wine a chance—just a chance—of passage at this session.

The speed was put on in the finance committee, which trampled over the announced intention of its chairman, Reed Smoot of Utah, to hold extended hearings on the bill's general merits. The committee blocked all that, voted favorably on the revenue-producing feature of the bill, and reported it back to the senate.

There it was tonight, on the calendar, but back of the pending repeal resolution.

Repeal Comes First

Senate leaders announced that the eighteenth amendment repealer sponsored by Senator Blaine (R., Wis.), would be given precedence over the beer bill, but they held out some hope that both would be voted on at this session of congress.

Senator Blaine announced he would move to take up his repeal resolution as soon as the senate has disposed of the pending treasury-post office appropriation bill. Senator Harrison, ranking Democrat of the finance committee, agreed that the repealer be given precedence over the beer bill and agreed that repeal should be next on the senate program. Other appropriation bills, relief measures, etc., may, however, delay action.

The finance committee this morning heard Secretary Mills in executive session for about an hour and then voted 12 to 5 to report the bill back to the senate.

Smoot had announced that hearings would be held, and several prohibition leaders were waiting outside the committee room to testify when the vote was taken. Dismissed unheard, the drys decided to air their views at a public meeting here next Friday.

Mills told the committee what he had already testified to a house committee that the bill would produce from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 in revenue. He said he was unable to estimate what, if any, additional revenue might be realized by the inclusion of 3.05 percent wine as well as beer.

The bill's provision for a $5 a barrel tax on brew was endorsed by the treasury head as likely to raise more revenue than any other levy. The committee voted down a proposal to increase it to $6.

Another amendment designed to increase the revenue was voted down by the committee without a record vote—a proposal by Senator Borah (R., Idaho), to levy an excess profits tax ranging from 10 to 30 percent on brewers.

How They Voted

The final vote found six Republicans and six Democrats voting for the measure, while two Republicans and three Democrats opposed it. Here is the line-up.

For: Republicans, Watson, Indiana; Reed, Pennsylvania; Shortridge, California; Bingham, Connecticut; La Follette, Wisconsin; Hastings, Delaware; Democrats, Harrison, Mississippi; King, Utah; George, Georgia; Walsh, Massachusetts; Barkley, Ken-

House Approves Bankruptcy Reform

Bill Permits Lighter Load For Farmers

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Jan. 30 (AP)—House response to the debtor's increasing cry for relief today was passage of an unprecedented measure drawn to ease in particular the strain on the farmers and the railroads.

Other individual debtors and corporations were included also in the wide scope of the bankruptcy reform measure which was rushed to the senate by a 201 to 43 vote. There is strong sentiment for it there, but a determined attempt will be made to modify it along lines recommended by Solicitor General Thacher.

Sentiment Evident

The overwhelming approval under rigid supervision of the rules climaxed a day of action during which the Democratic leadership drove through legislation extending the federal gasoline tax and provisions of the Glass-Steagall currency bill for another year. The latter measure went to the White House.

Opponents of the emergency bankruptcy bill lambasted it heartily during two hours of debate, but sentiment was so strong for it that leaders of the opposition accepted a standing ballot and did not ask for a roll-call.

"Members of this house have shed many crocodile tears over the plight of the farmer," Representative Tarver (D., Ga.), said during debate. "Let us see what you will do now. This is the only bill that may be put through at this session to relieve the farmer."

Assailing the measure, Representative Dyer (R., Mo.), said it established a debtor's moratorium.

"This is to do the same thing that is being done by force in some farm states," he said.

In brief, the bill enables individuals to put into effect through federal courts a plan under which they may get more time to pay or

10 JAILED IN STRIKE CLASH

Briggs Workers Ignore Deadline, Maintain Picket Lines

Detroit, Jan. 30 (AP)—The first minor disturbances in the week-old strike of Briggs Manufacturing Co. employes occurred today, as the 6,000 men who walked out last week ignored the deadline set for their return.

Ten persons, three of them women, were under arrest, and two men were treated in hospitals following clashes between pickets and persons who, police said, attempted to enter the employment gates of the company's plants. An expected rush of unemployed at noon, when the company said they would open their offices to all applicants, failed to materialize.

Meanwhile, automotive circles awaited word from Henry Ford, whose factories throughout the country were closed because his officials said, their supply of auto bodies from the Briggs plant was cut off. Ford officials have indicated they would, if necessary, go into production with bodies in his own plants.

A Ford spokesman said tonight the company would wait a few days before taking whatever steps are necessary to resume production.

Police on Patrol

The Briggs company's statement from the strike committee that "only a few" had passed the line of jeering pickets to enter the employment offices. State police guarding the company's plants said a few had gone into the plants, "one or two at a time." The company declined to state the number of men who returned.

Pickets who marched in circles about the plants set upon two men who they declared attempted to enter the gates to seek employment. Arthur Noblet was beaten about the head. Stephen Lawrence was cut about the face when pickets threw a brick through the window of his car as he drove near the employment gates. A force of state police held the pickets back, and took both men to hospitals for treatment.

The ten persons were arrested early this morning, when police reported they staged a noisy dem-

EUROPE-BOUND ORDERED HELD

Reported as ready to sail for Europe, Ernest J. Stevens, wealthy Chicago hotel executive, has been ordered arrested for alleged conspiracy to defraud the Illinois Life Insurance Co., of which he formerly was vice president. Stevens, his father and brother were indicted yesterday by the grand jury on charges of embezzlement.

JURY INDICTS J. W. STEVENS

Embezzlement Charged in True Bills Returned Yesterday

Chicago, Jan. 30 (AP)—True bills charging conspiracy and embezzlement were reported voted by the grand jury today against three former officials of the Illinois Life insurance company, now in receivership.

Those reported indicted were 80 year old James W. Stevens, former chairman of the board of the insurance company, and his two sons, Ernest J. and Raymond W.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney said the indictments probably would be returned tomorrow in open court.

The charges were based, Courtney said, on evidence that the insurance company voted 25 per cent dividends while insolvent and that the Stevenses borrowed hundreds of thousands of dollars through notes signed by "dummies."

Ernest J. Stevens already has been arrested on a warrant charging conspiracy to defraud the company. The warrant was issued after he had obtained a passport for a European trip. He was arraigned in criminal court today. The case was continued to March 6.

Interfinancial dealings between the LaSalle and Stevens hotels, also controlled by the Stevens family, and the insurance company were said by Courtney to have figured in the evidence given to the grand jury.

The hotels, also in receivership, borrowed about $13,000,000 from the insurance company on paper now said by investigators to be worthless. The Stevens claims to be the world's largest hotel.

In addition to the many loans, an auditor's report filed in federal court has revealed the company paid $250,000 in quarterly dividends during 1930 and 1931 while the company was piling up a deficit that reached nearly $7,000,000. The Stevenses were the chief stockholders.

With $150,000,000 in policies, the company operated extensively throughout the midwest. It holds many mortgages, now worth considerably less than face value, on farm lands and other real estate.

LEGISLATURE SEEKS RELIEF FOR SCHOOLS

LIMITATION FORCES NECESSITY OF STATE AID

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, Jan. 30 (AP)—The legislature reconvened Monday night with demands for school and tax relief bombarding the members.

It was evident little would be done in any direction until the administration taxation program has been received, possibly the middle of this week. It developed also that what already has been done toward lifting the burden on those delinquent in their taxes probably will have to be done over again. Despite these delaying factors suggestions poured in from educators and those championing tax relief measures.

A bill passed last week by the senate, suspending sales of tax delinquent property for one year, was found to be faulty. It was reported by a senate committee as a substitute for a measure covering only cancellation of tax sale advertising. Legislative officials ruled that the substitution was in violation of the constitution, because the subject matter of the substitute was much broader than that of the original bill. The measure therefor will have to be started all over again with a week at least required for final passage.

Insufficient Funds

Webster H. Pearce, superintendent of public instruction, revealed there is a growing demand from school officials for state aid. They claim that under the $15 tax limitation amendment to the constitution, the state will have to find at least $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 a year from some new source to prevent "schools

Members of the sub-committees were chosen from localities all over the state in order to gain as diversified viewpoint as possible.

The general committee organized here last week following a brief meeting with the governor, and plans were made to present the proposed legislation anticipating a change in the federal constitution, some time early in March.

Roosevelt and Advisors Making Cabinet Choices; Glass to Head Treasury?

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 30 (AP)—Organization of the new Democratic government took shape rapidly here today as President-elect Roosevelt went into conference with his closest political advisors.

Tonight the following appeared to be certain cabinet members:

Senator Glass, of Virginia, secretary of the treasury.
Senator Walsh, of Montana, attorney general.
James A. Farley, of New York, postmaster general.
Miss Frances Perkins, of New York, secretary of labor.

There was reason to believe also that pressure will be brought to bear on Owen D. Young, New York financier and economic authority, to become secretary of state.

Thousand Jobs

That he had written a letter asking not to be considered went undenied here, but those in "the know" were inclined to keep Young's name still in the picture.

With less than five weeks to go before taking office, Mr. Roosevelt got down to business on the vexing job of making more than a thousand new appointments of men to assist him in the direction of the government.

James A. Farley, national chairman; and Louis M. Howe, political secretary, the two men who were in the high command in the campaign, talked over the patronage situation. The president-elect gave not the slightest hint of his cabinet choices or whether these had been discussed.

But the gathering of Democratic leaders here stirred plenty of speculation. It ran the gamut of cabinet offices and appointments to the diplomatic corps and lesser offices.

Frank Walker, national party treasurer; Edward J. Flynn, New York party leader; and Robert Gore, of Chicago, were others of the Democratic chieftains arriving here.

The speculation on diplomatic posts turned on Newton D. Baker, of Ohio, for London; Judge Robert W. Bingham, Louisville publisher, for Paris; Robert Dunham, of Chicago, for Berlin; and Clark Howell, Atlanta publisher, for Tokyo or Rome.

All these names together with others were said to be "in the hat" with some shuffling around of the assignments possible and probable.

Mr. Roosevelt stuck to his determination to make no cabinet announcements at this time and his associates believed none would be made before he sails on

BREITUNG MAN SHOT TO DEATH

Jealousy Is Blamed for Slaying, Murderer Captured

Iron Mt., Jan. 30 (Special)—Dan Vanturis, age about 44, proprietor of a shoe repair shop at 216 Birch street, Breitung, was shot and killed at 10:30 o'clock this morning near the Abe Cohodes and Son dry goods store, Breen street, Breitung, by George Caram, 38, former Iron Mountain resident and now said to be the proprietor of a soft drink stand in Aurora, Wis. Caram is in the county jail.

The slaying, it was reported, climaxed a jealous feud existing between Caram and Vanturis for more than a year, with Caram's former wife as the central figure in the triangle.

The domestic difficulties between Caram and his former wife have frequently been aired in the local courts, their trouble having apparently begun shortly after their marriage. Caram was at one time proprietor of "The Sugar Bowl," a confectionery store located at the corner of Stephenson

Problems of Inflation

Is It a Cure for All Our Ills, or a Curse on All Our Blessings?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of four special articles analyzing the arguments for and against inflation of currency.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright 1933, NEA Service, Inc.)

Washington, Jan. 30—Currency inflation is in the air. You are going to hear and read a lot about it, for it directly affects you and everybody else.

To understand inflation, you must first recall just what money is. When you sell anything of value, or get paid for your work, you receive money, usually paper money. This paper has no value in itself, any more than any other printed paper. It is valuable only if, and because, you are sure others will accept it from you on the same terms you received it.

You feel sure of this because the government has definitely set down the terms on which it is to be used in paying debts, and on which it will be exchanged for gold, a thing everybody agrees is valuable.

Most kinds of U. S. money you can take to the mint and, on your demand, Uncle Sam will give you gold coin for them containing 25.8 grains of fine gold to the dollar.

That is the nucleus of the present system. But the whole system of paper money is an artificial, a created system. What the government creates, it can change. Inflation means a change in this system by law to achieve certain results.

How Currency Is Inflated

Many way of getting these results have been proposed. Here

Boy Throws Gun Shell in Stove, Struck in Neck

Vernon Meyers, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers, 1427 North Eighteenth street, will have a piece of a gun shell removed from his neck today as the result of his curiosity over what would happen if he tossed the ammunition in the stove.

Vernon and a companion found the shell and Monday morning decided they wanted to see if it would explode. It did.

Vernon was taken to St. Francis hospital and yesterday removed to his home. A piece of the exploded shell which lodged in his neck, just below the skin, will be removed this morning.

SERVICE CLUBS HEAR CHENEY

School Chief Gives Interesting Talk on "Technocracy"

After making it definitely certain in the minds of his hearers, that he neither believed in the plan, nor had an answer for claims made for it, Supt. R. E. Cheney, of the Escanaba public schools, yesterday explained before members of the Escanaba Rotary and Kiwanis clubs the fundamental principles of technocracy. Mr. Cheney is taking a special course at Columbia university, where so-called technocrats have been engaged, until recently, in promulgating the new economic plan and his presence in New York and, as a student at the university, made it possible for him to listen to several lectures by leaders in the movement and to study the principles set up by them at close range. Mr. Cheney repeatedly asserted during the course of his half hour address that technocracy, in his personal opinion, offers nothing new and is in reality merely a movement that is capitalizing the present world economic situation and has resulted in the coining of only another word.

Reviews Scott's Career

He reviewed the history of the movement, which is generally credited to technical engineers, but which, in fact, he said, was being led by an individual who was neither an engineer nor an acknowledged economist. In looking up the history of Howard Scott, generally credited with being the chief of all technocrats, until he recently broke with technicians attached to Columbia university, Mr. Cheney said, it was discovered that he had been identified as one of the leaders of the I. W. W. movement, in the west a number of years ago, and later was credited with being one of the strike leaders among the forces employed at Muscle Shoals during the war.

Cites Technocrats Claims

Mr. Cheney said that technocracy is said by its followers to be based upon three statements, which are:

Machinery displaces men, the price system will suffer until an adjustment is worked out by in-

100 Tons of Huge Rocks And Earth Fall on Prison Crew

Folsom Prison, Calif., Jan. 30 (AP)—Three convicts were killed and one was injured when they were caught in the prison quarry today by two landslides of approximately 400 tons of huge rocks and earth.

The dead:

John Mitchell, 28, sentenced from Los Angeles for second degree robbery.

The landslides occurred about 15 seconds apart.

The first buried Hughley, Mitchell, Jackson and Vansickle rushed to rescue their buried companions and were caught by a second tremendous avalanche of mud and rocks from the face of the 100-foot cliff flanking the quarry.

LONG-SOUGHT GOAL REACHED BY NAZI CHIEF

HINDENBURG UNITES WITH NATIONALIST FORCES

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Jan. 30 (AP)—Adolf Hitler achieved his long-sought goal—the chancellorship of the reich—today, and Nationalist Germany was thrown into a paroxysm of joy at the union of President Von Hindenburg and the Nazi leader in a common effort to pull the Fatherland out of the mire.

Hitler

Hitler, having at last attained the coveted goal, must now show whether the messiah-like hopes of 13,000,000 Germans in his statesmanship are justified.

The efforts of the Hitlerites as well as of the Nationalist followers of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg at last triumphed in bringing in three great movements of the right—the Nazis, the Nationalists, and the members of the Steel Helmet War Veterans association—together after many ups and downs since they met for common effort at Harzburg in October, 1931.

Must Keep Faith

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg placed the highest political office of the reich in the hands of the former Austrian corporal and at the same time appointed Dr. Wilhelm Frick and Hermann Goering (Nazi lieutenants), nationalist Leader Hugenberg and Steel-Helmet Leader Franz Seldte to the cabinet.

Presiding over the first session of his cabinet of "national concentration," Chancellor Hitler tonight put through unanimous motions against all policies of suppression, economic adventures or financial experimentation.

He adjured his fellow cabinet members "under no circumstances to disappoint the manifestation of faith and trust which today found spontaneous expression among the rank and file of the German people."

Later in a press conference the chancellor through Dr. Frick, the new interior minister, assured German and foreign correspondents that "the new government seeks to live in peace and friendship with all the world."

Dr. Frick further asserted that the Hitler cabinet intends to govern strictly constitutionally, adding that it does not even desire to govern with the aid of Article 48 of the constitution, which grants the administration drastic powers in times of emergency.

Thousands of brown-shirted Nazi storm troopers and members of the Steel Helmet War Veterans association, wearing their field gray uniforms, participated in a public demonstration of the new political unity.

Not until late yesterday was Hitler persuaded to accept the chancellorship under the limitations imposed by the president nor was Von Hindenburg ready to hand the highest office to the Nazi chieftain.

Two men managed to bridge the chasm between the field marshal and the former corporal. Former Chancellor Franz Von Papen prevailed upon Von Hindenburg to accept Hitler, and Goering won out over Joseph Goebbels, another Hitler lieutenant, in insisting that the Nazi leader must no longer decline to put his shoulder to the wheel.

Reach Compromise

The president's limitation consisted in associating with the new chancellor men having his personal confidence, such as Lieut. Von Papen, Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, General Werner Von Blomberg, and Count Lutz Schwerin Von Krosigk. Also, the president provided a check by putting in the new administrations men of different political

SUBPOENA UPON FORD VACATED

Judge Finds "Fatal Defect;" New Summons Is Necessary

Detroit, Jan. 30 (AP)—The subpoena served upon Henry Ford by an uninvited guest at an old fashioned dance several weeks ago was vacated in circuit court today.

Attorneys for the Sweeten Automobile company of Philadelphia, were advised that if they desired Ford's deposition in a civil suit in Pennsylvania, a new summons must be served upon him. Holding that failure of the Sweeten attorneys to file an authenticated copy of the Philadelphia court's order for the deposition constituted a "fatal defect," Judge Guy A. Miller set the subpoena aside.

Kenneth M. Stevens, attorney for the Sweeten company, filed the copy of the order today, but Judge Miller held that action should have been taken at the time the subpoena was applied for. Judge Miller's action automatically dismissed the petition of Stevens for a bench warrant to compel Ford to appear after he had failed to answer the subpoena.

Stevens said he would at once seek a new subpoena. It would have to be served by Feb. 17, when the order of the Pennsylvania court expires. Stevens previously had expressed doubt that Ford who has not appeared personally in court litigation since 1919, could be served again.

The original subpoena was handed to Ford by Wilfred C. Leland, 22, grandson of the late Henry M. Leland, former of the Lincoln Motor company, which Henry and Edsel Ford purchased at a receivers' sale in 1922. Young Leland appeared as a guest at the dance.

The suit of the Sweeten company is a counter action to a six year old case involving the old Lincoln Motor company.

Roosevelt Passes 51st Milestone

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 30, (AP)—Celebrating his 51st birthday today, President-elect Roosevelt got two parties, a number of gifts, a patch of congratulations and 51 cranks from his daughter, Anne Curtis Dall.

Anne and Elliott, the two children here with the family, gave a party late today at the Meriwether Inn to which all of the people of this community were invited and to which all came.

A cone-shaped 85-pound cake given by Elliott stood on the table in the center of the dining room with 51 candles on it. In a jovial mood, Mr. Roosevelt cut it and passed out the pieces to the guests, most of whom were crippled children receiving care here.

have their debts slashed down until they can meet them. The courts would have power to prevent the foreclosure of farms pending the arrangement.

The extension of time and reduction of indebtedness apply to corporations, but the latter can reorganize their capital structure and issue new securities which may find the value of holdings by stockholders and bondholders far less than they were before the plan was put into effect.

Affects Railroads

Railroad reorganization would be worked out under the supervision of the Interstate Commerce commission, but the courts would have the power of approval or disapproval.

Representative Laguardia (R., N. Y.), who drafted the provisions affecting railroads, said it was vital that the carriers be dealt with by someone familiar with the intricacies of railroad matters.

He said the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul was a reason for this bill, asserting that while the road was in equity receivership it had been "mulcted, there being $5,000,000 in attorneys fees."

Chairman Summers of the house judiciary committee, which reported the bill, and Representative Rayburn, chairman of the house interstate commerce committee, said railroads were in distress and that many of them must be reorganized.

"I believe it will result in a fair reorganization of the financial structure of many railroad companies," Rayburn said. "I believe it will better protect bondholders and other preferred claimants in their rights than has been customary in past receiverships."

Both President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt have approved the principles of the bill.

An amendment offered by Sumners which made the bill apply to bankruptcy proceedings now pending was adopted.

The one cent gasoline tax, which otherwise would expire on June 30, would be in effect to June 30, 1934, if the senate and White House agree with house action today. Its estimated yield is $137,000,000 yearly.

President Hoover is expected to sign the Glass-Steagall measure. It broadens provisions for the issuance of currency by banks.

RAPS DEMOS

Washington, Jan. 30 (AP)—With the senate bogged down in appropriations debate, President Hoover late today authorized a statement criticizing the Democratic house and its appropriations committee as having added $163,319,642 to the budget figures he submitted.

After a day of wrangling over items in the first big supply measure to come before it—the billion dollar treasury-postoffice bill—the senate heard a bi-partisan demand for abandonment of its customary five-hour day in favor of night sessions, beginning tomorrow. The senate debate centered upon a Democratic effort to limit expenditure of the bill's $19,000,000 fund for the air mail to 50 percent of existing contracts. No vote was reached.

The White House in its statement pointed out that the president had suggested a fund of $977,637,000, excluding permanent appropriations, for the state, justice, commerce and labor departments for the next fiscal year, but that the house appropriaitons committee had increased this figure by $128,535,814.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 30 (AP)—William L. Brassard, who pleaded guilty today in municipal court to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, was ordered to pay a fine of $25 and costs or serve 20 days in the county jail.

State police arrested Brassard after an automobile he was driving, struck a sled containing six children at a street intersection here. Three of the children received minor hurts.

Bits of Cheer in Business

Chicago, Jan. 30 (AP)—Sales of new passenger automobiles in December, with reports from 44 states tabulated, were running ahead of sales in the preceding month, R. L. Polk and company today reported. Total registration of passenger cars in the 44 states was 1.27 per cent above the November registration.

Washington, Jan. 30 (AP)—The department of commerce today announced automotive exports during December totaled $5,508,108 compared with $4,782,409 in November, an increase of 15 per cent. December exports were the highest since August.

Chicago, Jan. 30 (AP)—Sale at retail of 12,743 new cars and trucks in the second ten-day period of January was announced today by H. J. Klinger, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company. Klingler said this was the largest number of retail sales reported by dealers in any ten-day period since June of last year.

Detroit, Jan. 30 (AP)—For the fifth consecutive week automobile deliveries by the De Soto dealers showed a gain of more than 100 per cent over the corresponding week last year, the De Soto factory reported today. Deliveries for the week ended Jan. 21 totaled 965 cars.

Obtained Divorce

Mrs. Caram gained a divorce in Wisconsin about a year and a half ago. Shortly thereafter, is was said, she became friendly with Vanturis, becoming his housekeeper, but it had not been determined today whether or not they were later married. They lived in the rear of his shoe shop.

The woman's friendship with Vanturis, it was related, developed bad feeling between the two men. Arguments developed during their meetings on various occasions, it was said, but had never resulted in an out and out fight. Accasionally neighbors said today, Mrs. Caram journeyed across the river into Aurora to visit her former spouse and this did not improve matters between Caram and Vanturis.

Vanturis left his shop this morning to get his mail from the box located near the Corner of Breen and Birch streets. Although there were no known witnesses to the actual shooting, Caram, it was learned later, was standing outside the store as Vanturis approached. Whether any word ensued between the two was not learned.

Hear Shot

Suddenly, however, store keepers and others in shops nearby heard a shot. Running to the windows, they saw Caram dashing south across vacant lots in the direction of the Menominee river. Vanturis, meanwhile, staggered back, clutching his right side, and then wavered along in an alley west of the Cohodes store in an effort to reach his shop.

Vanturis struggled through the alley for about 75 feet and fell dead.

Meanwhile a call had been sent to the office of Rudolph Freeman, sheriff. Freeman, accompanied by Deputy Al Berutti, found Vanturis lying upon the ground where he had fallen. Blood was flowing from the wound in his right side.

Learning that Caram had been seen running in the direction of the Aurora bridge over the Menominee river Freeman started off in his car to overtake him, leaving Berutti in charge of the body of Vanturis.

Makes Capture

As Freeman reached the Aurora bridge he saw Caram running ahead of him on the road on the Wisconsin side of the bridge. Crossing the bridge, Freeman parked his car and set out on foot after the man. As he did so Caram turned around, saw Freeman and stopped.

Caram started walking slowly toward Freeman. As the sheriff came up to him Caram said: "All right, Rudy, I'll come along." Freeman searched him but could find no gun. "How about the gun?" Freeman asked. "I threw it in the river," Caram replied. Freeman placed Caram under arrest and returned with him to the county jail.

There Caram is reported to have said: "I didn't mean to kill him. I didn't think one shot would kill him." The gun, Caram told the sheriff, was a 32 calibre revolver.

LEGISLATURE SEEKS RELIEF FOR SCHOOLS

closing and a general break down of the educational system." School operating costs in 1931 were more than $90,000,000. Pearce estimated costs might be cut to $75,000,000 but claimed the districts still will be short more than $20,000,000. He figured that if five mills of the 15 mill tax is apportioned to schools they would have only $30,000,000 from this source. The primary school fund would add another $20,000,000. The schools still would require approximately $25,000,000 according to his figures.

Pearce as well as school officials throughout the state frankly wondered "where the state is going to get the money." Whether the sales and gross income tax to be proposed by the administration would be large enough to grant this amount to the schools and still retire most of the state property tax was a question they were anxiously waiting to have answered.

Another bill proposing to spread tax delinquency payments over a ten year period was introduced in the house by Representative Fred C. Holbsck, Republican, Long Lake. It stipulated 1932 taxes must be paid before the installment plan could become operative. Those who had paid current taxes could retire their back levies in ten annual, equal installments starting in 1935.

Additional "economy" measures were offered by the recent commission of inquiry into state expenditures. One proposed to cut the pay of circuit court steographers in all circuits twenty percent. The other would give counties authority to treat crippled children locally rather than send them to the university hospital.

A bill designed to protect holders of an estimated $335,000,000 in defaulted real estate bonds was drafted for submission by Senator Felix H. H. Flynn, Republican, Cadillac.

The measure would create a three-man body to be known as the public trust commission to regulate so-called bondholders protective committees. Senator Flynn and George W. Welsh, of Grand Rapids, who aided him in drafting the bill, charge that bondholders committees are in many instances actually "milking" properties which the bonds cover.

The bill would forbid the formation of bondholders protective committees without a license from the public trust commission.

LONG-SOUGHT GOAL REACHED BY NAZI CHIEF

persuasions from Hitler, such as Dr. Hugenberg and Seldte. At the same time he acceded to Hitler's taking into the cabinet two of his trusted lieutenants, Goering and Frick.

Moreover, Hitler, in the presence of President Von Hindenburg, vowed with a handshake to Von Papen and Seldte that he would not endeavor to rid himself of the non-Nazi members of the cabinet nor would he try to oust tried and trusted government functionaries from office to make room for Nazis.

The parties supporting the new regime are assured of 247 votes in the reichstag, while the majority needed consists of 293. The new regime hopes that the Centrists will at least tolerate a Hitler cabinet, thereby preventing adoption of a non-confidence vote by the reichstag.

The Centrists at present are assuming a reserved attitude but they frankly state they are skeptical about the new government. To prevent Germany's gliding into a reign of unconstitutionality, however, they seemed inclined tonight to exercise benevolent nutrality. Their final attitude will be fixed, however, only after their leader, Dr. Ludwig Kaas, has conferred tomorrow with the chancellor.

That the reichstag, which is scheduled to convene not later than February 7, will not sit long, seems to be a foregone conclusion. The new government expects the reichstag to pass an enabling act giving the cabinet a free hand to govern without reichstag interference for six months. If such an enabling act is refused dissolution seems certain.

GENERAL STRIKE

Berlin, Jan. 31 (Tuesday)—A general strike, as labor's answer to Adolph Hitler's coming into power, was advocated today by the Communist organ Rote Fahne, which said that representatives and workers' councils of 2,000 organizations had resolved to agitate for a strike.

"Through force of a strike, the Kapp Putsch in 1920 (an anti-Republican movement) failed," the workers' resolution read. "So must Hitler's government tumble."

Socialists, on the other hand, are asking thier members to keep cool, while Dr. Wilhelm Frick, new cabinet member and a Nazi lieutenant, said the government was prepared to take the sternest measures against a strike.

Meanwhile, disorders occurred in many cities in Germany, even before the second day of Hitler's government dawned.

In Oranieburg three persons were seriously injured in fighting between Nazis and Communists.

At 1 a. m. a policeman, a member of a detail escorting one hundred Nazis home after a demonstration in Wilhelmstrasse, was slain by shots from a darkened house.

lustrialism and labor.

He quoted claims of those backing the movement, tending to prove that the present world economic disturbance is but the breaking down of an economic plan upon which the world has depended until this time.

He said they insisted that in 1875, 90 per cent of the workers of the world were engaged in production necessary to the existence of human life, leaving but 10 per cent of the working population to be engaged in other pursuits. It is the claim of the technocrats today, he said, that but 30 per cent of the total working population, because of the development of machinery to take the place of man power, is now engaged in necessary employment. He told of claims made by technocrats that machinery has now been perfected that will permit one automobile chassis manufacturer, employing but 50 men, to make the chassis for the entire annual output of automobiles and cited other instances as to their claims concerning the effect of machinery upon employment.

In elaborating the second statement of technocracy's platform that the price system controls employment, he quoted their claims that price has become so dominant a factor in manufacture today that the introduction of machinery to lower costs, most decisively controls the scope of employment.

Finally, he said that technocracy sets up the claim that until technocrats are permitted to stand between industrialism and labor, autocratically determining whether or not machinery shall be used for certain jobs, there can be no return to former standards of employment.

Technocrats Pessimistic

Mr. Cheney pointed forcefully to the final conclusion that it is a most unhappy picture that is painted by technocracy for the world and expressed his personal belief, that many of the claims for the movement can be definitely disproven by facts, but admitted that he had not personally discovered an answer to all of the claims made for the movement.

A group of approximtely 75 Escanaba business and professional men listened most attentively to Mr. Cheney's interpretation of the aims upon which the new economic movement is founded and which made a most interesting program.

the accident totaled 800 men. All were sent back to their cells and a select rescue crew of 50 convicts, including trusties rushed to the scene from the prison farm, was set to work with air drills, picks, shovels and the quarry derrick.

It was first believed five or six men had been caught by the slide but a double check of all convicts in the prison showed only the four victims were missing.

Vansickle was rescued first. Then the workers found the bodies of Hughley and Mitchell. Later Jackson's body was discovered pinned beneath a granite boulder estimate to weight at least 150 tons.

Members of the rescue crew were set to work drilling the boulder over Jackson's body. A charge of dynamite split it and at last his crushed form was free.

Warden Smith ordered emergency lights strung into the quarry so the rescue crew could work hrough the night, clearing away the debris. He said he believed his would take at least 24 hours.

After the accident extra guards were ordered to man the prison walls as a precaution against attempted breaks.

"The Democratic platform," Connally said, "does not sanction the sale of beverages of an intoxicating alcoholic content. It provides only for such a content 'as is permissable under the constitution.'"

The Collier-Blaine bill was previously approved by the senate judiciary committee by a vote of 8 to 6.

The house passed the original Collier measure, providing only for beer, by a vote of 230 to 165, shortly before Christmas.

PASTOR HELD FOR ASSAULT

Minister Also Indicted For Striking His Choir Master

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 30 (AP)—The Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Episcopal church here, was indicted by the Delaware county grand jury today on charges of attempting to attack on 18 year old high school girl and also of striking his choir master.

The minister, who is 55 years old, married and has five grown children, surrendered to Sheriff Fred W. Puckett. Bond was fixed at $3,000 on the charge of assault and battery with intent to commit rape, and $500 on a charge of assault and battery.

The Rev. Mr. Conway will face a church trial soon for alleged imprudent conduct unbecoming a minister. The trial will be held before Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit and welve members of the Methodist Episcopal conference.

Charges Denied

Mr. and Mrs. Burl Huffman and heir daughter Helen, 18, were recent witnesses called by the grand jury.

During a preliminary church hearing, held by Dr. Frank K. Dougherty, district superintendent, Miss Huffman testified, Dr. Dougherty said, that the Rev. Mr. Conway invited her into his automobile last December and attempted to attack her. The minister, however, denied the charges, asserting that enemies within his church were responsible for the accusations.

The trouble became a matter of public knowledge following the services Sunday evening, Jan. 22, when the Rev. Mr. Conway knocked Willard F. Aurand, choir master, over the chancel rail. His action was attributed to reports that Aurand had been active in gathering evidence against him. Aurand denied this.

The minister conducted services yesterday morning and presided at the Sunday evening services while a member of the congregation delivered the sermon.

YOUTH SAVED FROM DEATH

Menominee Skater Rescued After He Falls Through Ice

Menominee, Jan. 30 (Special)—Henry "Heinie" Schwellenbach, 16, high school junior, was rescued from death by drowning about 3:30 p. m., yesterday by the courage and resource of John Sullivan, 17, president of the high school senior class, and other companions when Schwellenbach plunged through Green bay ice while skating around Green Island.

Schwellenbach, 512 Stephenson avenue, was skating with John Sullivan, 416 Saxton avenue, Francis Gibout, Baker avenue, and Vernon Dumouchelle, 504 State street, when the accident occurred. The four had completed a circuit of Green Island and were over deep water on the north side of the island.

Schwellenbach and Sullivan were out ahead, but Sullivan dropped behind to tighten the lace on one of his skates. When Sullivan resumed the chase he encountered slush and stopped, yelling a warning at the time to Schwellenbach, who was ahead.

Sinks to Head

Schwellenbach turned to heed Sullivan and coasted deep into the area of slush ice, which began to settle under his weight. He was stripped by contact with shell ice in the slush and sprawled out. His kicks took him deeper into the slush ice.

The ice continued to settle under him the water covered him to his chin.

By this time Sullivan, Gibout and Dumouchelle had approached to the edge of the slush and urged Schwellenbach, hampered by heavy clothing and skates, to keep kicking to stay afloat.

Other Skaters Arrive

While Schwellenbach struggled in the water and slush ice, five other skaters, John Acker, Jr., Schale building; Justin Mead, 234 Sheridan road; Fred Padgett, Jr., Stephenson avenue; William Jones, Jr., 232 Sheridan road; Emery Chernetsky, Jr., arrived at the scene.

Sullivan ordered the skaters to strip off their jackets. He hurriedly tied together his jacket and Acker's and crawled out toward Schwellenbach. The ice was cracking under Sullivan's weight as he wormed his way along and the slush rose around him and wet his clothing.

Sinking dangerously, Sullivan noted that Schwellenbach was breaking his way through the ice toward him and that the ice would not support them both. The tied jackets would not reach between the two, so Sullivan wormed his way back to solid footing.

Second Attempt Successful

Schwellenbach's exertions were tiring him. His face was dark. Sullivan, fearing that Schwellenbach was about exhausted and would soon slip out of sight, started another perilous trip across the slush ice to rescue his friend. Sullivan is light. He weighs about 115 pounds. Schwellenbach weighs about 150 pounds.

Sullivan crawled to a point from which he could throw the jackets so that Schwellenbach could catch the far end. Schwellenbach caught and held. Sullivan started backing up, digging the pointed runners of his racing skates into the slush to give him traction.

When Sullivan's determined tugs had pulled Schwellenbach onto the sinking ice, Schwellenbach, exhausted, lost his grip on the jacket and slid backward. Sullivan lunged forward and grabbed Schwellenbach's arm. The other skaters caught Sullivan's feet and dragged him, as he clung to Schwellenbach, to safety on firm ice.

DIRECT RELIEF IS ALSO GIVEN

R. F. C. Aid Advanced to Needy; Repay With Work Later

Seventy-five men are now employed in brushing and clearing work on US-41, north of Rapid River, and M-35, in the vicinity of Rock, R. P. Mason, county highway engineer announced yesterday. Other work projects are being lined up so as to give additional employment in other townships, and it is expected another large force of men will be given work next week.

The lack of necessary work projects, however, will not stand in the way of giving relief to the unemployed. The needy will be given their means of sustenance, since under the terms of the Reconstruction Finance corporation's loan the money may be used for direct relief, as well as labor, if a pledge is given that there will be a repayment in the form of work by the recipients of aid at a later date. Prosecuting Attorney W. J. Miller recently drew up an agreement form, which will be used by township supervisors to secure promises from relief recipients that they will work out the amount when the opportunity presents itself.

Delta county townships have been allotted the sum of $14,000 to dispense for direct relief or work propects during January and February. It is expected that the amount of loans forthcoming for this year will total $80,000. While it is preferred to use the money for labor on the highways, weather conditions prevent work on all but a few constructive projects. The plan will mean that there will be a deferred "labor reservoir" built up during the winter months, which will be utilized in the spring. It is expected, however, that from 300 to 400 men will be given work on a staggered basis before the end of next month on various jobs, which can be done satisfactorily during the winter season.

DALADIER NEW FRENCH CHIEF

Veteran Minister Forms Cabinet Without Socialist Aid

Paris, Jan. 31 (AP)—The veteran minister Edouard Daladier announced shortly after midnight that he had formed a new French cabinet with himself as premier and minister of war.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, whose government was overthrown Saturday, was designated minister of foreign affairs. George Bonnet, president of the radical federation of the Seine and member of previous cabinets, will hold the important post of minister of finance, Lucien Lamoureux, one-time minister of public instruction, was named minister of the budget, and Camille Chautemps, who unsuccessfully tried to form a cabinet after Edouard Herriot quit on the war debt issue, becomes minister of the interior.

Announcement of other appointees was expected later.

As soon as Socialist participation in the cabinet was declared impossible, M. Daladier, who regained leadership of the radical Socialist party after the downfall of Herriot, set to work rapidly.

Like the two previous cabinets, which had to contend with war debts and budget problems, the new cabinet will be at the mercy of the Socialists, but is considered unlikely that the latter will be hostile, at least in the first few days.

The trouble with you men from the other side of the aisle is you drink dry and vote wet.

Preliminary production figures value the iron and steel manufactures in Canada in 1931 at $385,189,000, a decrease of 32 per cent from 1930.

PUSSY PLAYS ROUGH

Wichita Falls, Tex.—Norris Gant must have thought he had roped a stick of dynamite the other day. While riding, Gant came upon seven wildcats and managed to throw a lasso over one of them. Then followed a fight. The cat jumped up on the horse, but was dislodged when the horse jumped to one side. Gant finally managed to throw his rope over the limb of a tree and haul the fighting cat off the ground. He then bound the cat's legs with some string from his saddle. He now has the cat in a cage at his home.

EDITORIAL

CAN'T BACK HYPOCRISY

A "BUY AMERICAN" campaign being waged by the Hearst newspapers in the United States, would gain and deserve a lot more support, if the management of the same Hearst papers would merely practice what they preach. It is a well known fact that the Hearst newspapers are the largest importers of foreign manufactured newsprint in the United States. Newsprint mills of Canada, Finland, Sweden and Russia, employing cheap labor and under the further advantage of depreciated national currencies, can produce and deliver in the United States their product at a lower price than that for which print can be manufactured in this country, and it is on such print the Hearst papers are urging to "Buy American."

For years, in newspaper publication circles, it has been recognized that the management of the Hearst newspapers, through adherance to a ruthless policy of buying materials at the lowest possible price, no matter what the source, by contracting for a part of their newsprint requirements abroad, have practically set the price of print for manufacturers in this country. In practice, this policy has beaten the price of print paper to a ruinously low price level, under which no mill in this country can hope to survive.

To those newspaper publishers governed only by selfish motives, the Hearst policy has been highly beneficial, but to newspapers located in states and districts, where the pulp and paper manufacturing industry has been established, the unsatisfactory and ruinous results that must follow, have been recognied.

So thinking people of this nation cannot subscribe wholeheartedly, to any movement, no matter what may be its value, when that movement is principally urged and backed by an organization, which can be so clearly charged with the wrecking of a former great American industry by itself, refusing to "Buy American".

Discussing Mr. Hearst and his "Buy American" campaign, Tom Conlin, veteran and thinking editor of the Crystal Falls Diamond Drill said:

"Hearst Should Practice What He Preaches." The newspapers owned or controlled by William R. Hearst have been staging a campaign to "Buy American" which means buy products manufactured in America. It so happens that Mr. Hearst is not at this time practicing what he preaches, else the paper business in the United States would not be in the condition which it is in at the present time.

Mr. Hearst's biggest supply item is print and book papers and he buys this material in Canada. Now, one who has an understanding of the news print situation will not blame Mr. Hearts so much for purchasing his paper in Canada as he will Hearst's so conducting his purchases that he is charged with having inserted the lever that ruined the price structure of the news print business not only in the United States but in Canada as well.

There isn't timber enough in the United States to keep mills going of sufficient capacity to supply the newspapers of the United States with a permanent supply of pulp making material and so resort has to be made to Canada. Our Canadian brothers took advantage of the ascending prices of materials and supplies and boosted the price of news print to a point where publishers had a kick coming and after considerable pressure the price was reduced to a point where it yielded only a living return even to Canadian manufacturers.

One morning the news print business was aroused by the announcement that the Hearst interests had made a long term contract with some Canadian mill which cut the price and started a news print war in Canada. The result has been the practical crippling of the industry in Canada and numerous failures of print manufacturing companies.

Then came the abandonment of the gold standard by England and her provinces and the resultant differential in American and foreign currency which has brought mills in the United States to a point where they cannot compete in the pulp end of the game and are compelled to buy foreign pulp and manufacture it rather than grind up American wood. This has resulted in throwing out of employment thousands of men in our woods and bringing the price of pulp wood down to a figure at which it simply cannot be harvested with profit, even at the reduced price of labor.

So, if Mr. Hearst wants to make his "Buy American" effective he can start the ball moving by swinging some of his paper business to American mills at a living price. That would furnish employment to thousands of men in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota that are now idle because of the cut-throat prices in the news and book print industry to which condition Mr. Hearst is pointed to as the initial instigator.

RIGHTS A WRONG

A LOT of people in Michigan will have considerable more respect for Theodore I. Fry, the state's new treasurer, because of his frank public admission last week that criticism of conditions he found to exist in state funds, when he took over the office, should not be considered as criticism of his immediate predecessor, Howard C. Lawrence. Appearing before the Democratic state central committee, recently, the new treasurer complained and expressed deep concern over the presence in the state sinking fund of $7,000,000 worth of bonds, issued by municipalities of Michigan, which have defaulted on principal or interest, in some of their obligations. Mr. Fry left the impression that these defaulted bonds had been purchased during the administration of his predecessor, Howard Lawrence. The latter immediately took issue with Mr. Fry with the result that the present treasurer issued an open statement saying that the only issue of bonds, now in default, purchased by Mr. Lawrence, was an issue authoried by the city of Flint and which issue is in default only as to its interest. Mr. Fry also announced his belief that this issue would eventually be restored to its full value.

Howard Lawrence holds a reputation as possessing one of the most astute financial minds in the state and that his successor in office has finally been fair enough to removed what was at first accepted as a cloud upon Mr. Lawrence's record, will be a matter of satisfaction to the former treasurer's many friends through the state.

CUT IS JUSTIFIED

WHILE there may be some basis for honest disagreement as to the fees provided in the measure, a bill introduced jointly in the state senate last week by Senator W. F. Doyle, of this district and Senator Ray Derham, of the Thirty-first district, paves the way for a return to sanity in game and fish license charges in this state. As fixed by the last legislature two years ago, upon the recommendation of the conservation department, every license fee established, is out of line with present day conditions and the error made at that time should be corrected as speedily as possible.

It is reported that Director George Hogarth, of the Conservation Department, has taken the position that the license fees provided in the senate bill, will not permit the department to function as it has in the past. But Director Hogarth and the head of every other department in the state government must come finally to an appreciation of the fact that the people of Michigan are demanding economy in no uncertain terms and he and other department heads might as well make up their minds now that no department is going to have at its disposal funds, such as were formerly provided—if preelection promises are carried out.

CHAPTER XXV

There were signs of spring in the air when the "Heigh-ho" company arrived in the small city of Spencer. It was to be a full week's engagement and Sheila and Jappy were glad. They could unpack some of the things in their trunks and make their little hotel room seem more homelike.

Spencer was a factory town but it had its social life also. The factories, it seemed, were owned by aristocratic families. Sons married and brought their wives back to Spencer as a matter of course. Daughters went away to attend finishing schools, traveled, but when their fashionable weddings took place they and their husbands always returned to take their places in the family circle.

Spencer's leading citizens drew strict lines of social prestige. They were rather snobbish. They made ceremonies of every public gathering and they particularly enjoyed the theater. Business was good that week for the 'Heigh-ho" company.

Sheila soon found herself becoming something of a celebrity here. Her dancing was applauded nightly. When she left the theater—usually with McKee's protecting presence—it was she and not the comedian who received the acclaim. McKee took this good-naturedly. It mattered little to him that Sheila was registering a hit in this inland community.

By the middle of the week people recognized her on the street, turned and stared as she passed. "That's Sheila Shayne in the show at the Capitol," she would hear them say. "She's the girl who dances in that feather outfit, you know."

Sheila, with her years in the theater, didn't mind being stared at. She knew it was the price of success.

"Coming to walk?" she asked Jappy one morning as she emerged from the bathroom and began rummaging in a suitcase for clean underthings. Jappy, wrapped in a brilliant coolie coat, was catching a run in a stocking. She looked up and thrust back a cloud of dark hair from her face.

"Can't. I have to see Fletcher at 11."

"There are some bus rides," Sheila considered. "And spring seems to be in the air. I think I'll take a ride and see if I can find anything interesting."

"You could have taken a ride with us last night," Jappy observed reproachfully. She had invited Sheila on a blind date and the invitation had been refused.

"But I couldn't have looked around much. This seeing America by moonlight—"

Jappy wrinkled her nose in disdain. "You're not going Garbo on us, are you?" she queried. "Blue glasses wouldn't be becoming to a girl like you."

"Well, I don't care to be picked up," Sheila's tone was definite.

Jappy laughed. "My dear, we didn't pick those boys up. We did them a service. They'll talk about knowing girls from the show for months."

"That's what I mean—"

"And they bought us a grand supper. I was starved—hadn't eaten since breakfast."

Sheila moved toward the telephone. "Shall I order something sent up now?"

"Do."

They had found that by buying fruit and bringing it to their room they could order breakfast sent up as cheaply as it was served in the dining room downstairs. Toast and coffee for two with oranges or grapefruit from the dresser drawer came to about the same price as a more substantial breakfast in the dining room would have cost.

By the time Sheila had dressed the waiter appeared with a tray. The girls ate, discussing plans for the day. Half an hour later Sheila boarded a bright yellow bus and was soon skimming along a road that appeared to lead to the country. It was a sort of adventure, taking this bus with no clear idea where it might take her. Of course she would inquire when she left it how to get back to the hotel.

A new residence section of tiny homes, side by side and all alike, caught her attention. They were attractive houses. Instead of being monotonous the street with its uniform dwellings was pleasing.

Sheila was told by the obliging bus driver that these houses had been built by one of the large manufacturing companies as residences for their employes.

The driver added that the bus returning to Spencer did not follow the route they had covered but that Sheila could hail it by walking a short distance through a lane leading to another main thoroughfare. The busses ran every 20 minutes, the driver said.

"I think I'll get off here," Sheila decided. The lane was flanked by a brook on one side and a baseball field on the other. It was a picturesque spot. The trees were budding and the grass was a fresh new green. Long-legged bugs flitted over the water and sunshine shimmered through the branches of the trees. Sheila loved spring even in New York, but she had never seen anything quite like this.

She decided to stay a while and enjoy it all. Sheila sat down beneath a tree, settling back against it, her hat in her lap, the breeze playing with the tendrils of her hair. Yes, spring was definitely in the air. Oh, it was good to be alive on such a day!

It was late morning. Presently a whistle blew and from the brick factory far across the field men in overall uniforms emerged. Some walked to a building which, though Sheila did not know it, was a lunch room. Others settled beneath trees to open lunch boxes. Still others ran immediately to the ball field and began a game.

Sheila smiled, sighed and watched them lazily. These signs of brisk activity only served to increase her own indolence. Presently she discovered that she was not alone. A few yards down the brook a young man was lying full length on the grass, his clasped hands pillowing his head, his eyes staring at the branches above him.

"Probably one of the factory workers," Sheila thought to herself. "Maybe he hasn't the money to buy lunch—or maybe he wants to enjoy all this, just as I do."

It would be difficult for either a layman or the most enthusiastic sportsman to definitely establish what would be considered fair license fees for hunting and fishing. It is probable that Senators Doyle and Derham have given this matter proper consideration and in fixing the fees named in their joint bill have followed the judgment of some authority.

High license fees, such as have been enforced for the past two years, have made more game law violators than any other cause in a generation. The fees should be reduced and those who like to hunt and fish, will be satisfied that the matter in which they are interested has been brought to the fore.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE WANDERER

Green were the fields of my old home,
Yet greener fields I hoped to find;
A poorer land I chose to roam,
And left a better land behind.
I labor with a stranger's loam,
With Father's grain to cut and bind.

I tramped away across the hill,
For so do other hills invite;
Will o' the wisp and whip-poor-will
I followed through the fading light;
And yet upon the windowsill
My Mother sets a lamp tonight.

The place was small, the world was wide,
And youth will always have its way,
But ev'ry time I laughed I lied,
Since I left home that summer's day;
For there's a maiden there beside
The gate, whose blushes bade me stay.

I thought the world was very fair;
The only fair world is the near.
I would go home, did I but dare,
But pride has filled my heart with fear.
I whisper, "If I were but there!"
They whisper, "If he were but here!"

SPUD GROWERS GET REWARDS

Certificates of Attainment Are Mailed to Verschure

Certificates of attainment were mailed this week to twelve Upper Peninsula potato growers who produced over 500 bushels per acre, according to D. L. Clanahan, Extension Specialist in Farm Crops, Marquette. These certificates were awarded by the Upper Peninsula Potato Growers' Association at their regular meeting which was held at Newberry, October 20. All except one of these high yields were made with the 1932 crop. The yields were all officially checked by representatives of Michigan State College. These twelve growers represent five Upper Peninsula counties showing the universal adaptibility of Upper Peninsula soil and climate in the production of this cash crop.

The names of the twelve growers and their yield per acre are as follows:

Alphonse Verschure, Schoolcraft Co., yield, 593.56.

John Eilola, Baraga Co., yield, 583.7.

John Soderman & Son, Iron Co., yield, 553.93.

Alphonse Verschure, Schoolcraft Co., yield, 554.

Oscar Komula, Baraga Co., yield 542.08.

Russell Tennant, Schoolcraft Co., yield, 538.

Oscar Musgrave, Luce Co., yield, 535.61.

H. J. Skinner, Luce Co., yield, 529.5.

George Starkey, Marquette Co., yield, 500.1.

Loma Farms, Marquette Co., yield, 554.5.

Amos Thompson, Luce Co., yield, 547.

John Delongchamp, Marquette Co., yield 538.

The cultural practices followed by these growers are significant. Each man either fall plowed a clover or alfalfa sod or summer fallowed the field the previous year. They all planted certified seed at the rate of 20 bushels per acre or more. Their crop was planted early, the average planting date being about May 23. All of these men used commercial fertilizer and sprayed or dusted their crop at least five times during the growing season.

Records of high yields over the past nine years show a marked trend toward replacing row cultivation with dragging or disking before planting and dragging or weeding after planting.

Several of these 500 bushel yields were made with only two row cultivations but to replace this a great deal more time and effort was placed on soil preparation.

Four words tell the story of the world's great worries today: armament, war, destruction, debt. —U. S. Senator James E. Watson (Rep., Ind.), majority floor leader.

Jury Disagreement Completes Trial Of Two Northland Men

Iron Mountain—After more than nine hours deliberation, the circuit court jury in the case of Mark Roberts and Andrew 'Spike' Johnson, both of Northland, in Marquette county, charged with assault with attempt to murder, returned at 1 o'clock Saturday morning and reported a disagreement. At that hour, it was said, the jury stood eight to four for conviction of Roberts only.

Roberts and Johnson were arrested following a melee which occurred early the morning of November 14, at the shack of Henry Salsbury, in Ralph, after a dance at the Ralph town hall. During the fighting Robert Blackhall was shot in the stomach, Clarence Anderson received a slight wound at the back of his head and Salsbury, according to his own account was threatened by Roberts.

After the jury disagreement Roberts and Johnson were returned to the Dickinson county jail to await re-trial at the April term of court unless some other disposition is made of the case before that time. Bond is set at $10,000. Prosecutor Paul Rahm, who suffered from a severe throat infection throughout the hearing, was ill in bed at his home this morning and could not be interviewed regarding what he plans to do.

Arguments by counsel were concluded at about 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon and after a 15-minute recess Judge Frank A. Bell began his charge to the jury. His instructions occupied 45 minutes.

Possible Verdicts

The court, after reviewing the legal application of testimony submitted in the case, instructed the jury to bring in a verdict either of guilty, as charged; not guilty as charged; guilty of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder; guilty; guilty of assault with a deadly weapon; guilty of assault and battery, or guilty of simple assault.

The jury retired shortly before 4 o'clock and nothing was heard from it until about midnight. Meanwhile Judge Bell, with W. S. Cudlip, county clerk, and other court officials, sat in the court room awaiting some word from the jury room.

Shortly before 12 o'clock the jury returned for further instructions. Through the foreman, Henry L. Munch, the jurors wanted to know if they were permitted to find either Roberts or Johnson guilty without convicting the other.

Judge Bell explained that since Roberts, who had admitted the actual shooting, was the principal in the case, and Johnson was the "secondary principal," Roberts could legally be convicted without Johnson, but Johnson could not be found guilty without Roberts. If Johnson were found guilty, the court explained, Roberts, being the principal, must automatically be guilty too.

Agree to Disagree

Shortly after the jury returned to its room, according to reports today, another ballot was taken. Ten jurymen, it was said, voted for the conviction of Roberts and two declined to vote. There was another half hour or more of discussion before the next ballot. It resulted in a vote of eight to four for conviction of Roberts only. And there the jury hung until 1 o'clock a. m., when the members voted to return and report a disagreement.

Dennis McGinn, counsel for the defense, both in his argument and rebuttal yesterday, made much of the testimony of the prosecution's witnesses which, he said, although accounting for scars on Johnson's head claimed to have been caused when he was hit by a bottle in the hands of Salsbury, failed to account for the gash in Johnson's neck.

Lansing Merry Go Round

Lansing, Jan. 30.—Perhaps Mr. and Mrs. John Public will enjoy this week a little Merry-Go-Round trip through the multi colored vista of Michigan state receipts and expenditures, since it is Mr. and Mrs. John Public who really own and operate the show. State statistics in table and audited form are dry reading and difficult navigation for the ordinary citizen. Reduced, however, to those items which a newspaper man finds of news interest they make a most graphic group of facts.

Michigan's year ends on the last day of each June. All figures are for the twelve months from July 1st to June 30th on the succeeding year. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, Michigan's expenditures for all purposes, as tabulated by the Auditor General, were one hundred thirty and one-half million dollars, equal to $26 for every man, woman and child in Michigan. This is almost an even ten million dollars over the total disbursements for 1929, three years ago. The 1932 Legislative Committee of Inquiry into State Governmental Expense has recommended that these expenses be reduced by five million dollars this year, but Governor Comstock has aid that this reduction is less than half the minimum aim of his administration.

Among the interesting facts shown by the state's annual receipts is a motor bus privilege tax which yields $44,396, while the railroad express companies pay only $32,369. The railroad companies pay nearly eight million dollars in specific taxes, but the sleeping car companies contribute less than fifty thousand dollars annually. The total state gasoline tax amounts to more than twenty three million dollars, the automobile license fees to nearly nineteen million, the corporation privilege tax to seven million and the telegraph and telephone tax to three and a half million dollars.

The State Highway Department, exclusive of expenditures by the 83 counties, spent more than eighteen million dollars on roads and bridges. Six and one half million dollars came from the federal government, two thirds of which was for trunk line roads and the remainder a government loan for the same purpose. For betterment projects the Highway Department spent $641,000, three and one half million for road and bridge material and nearly three million dollars for purchasing rights of way for road building. Michigan, My Michigan, had to pay damage and injury claims amounting to $670,508, most of which was for damage to property of one kind or another. Perhaps we'll be a little more careful this year.

The purchasing agent for the state of Michigan has to have a large library of catalogs and price lists. He buys in great variety. Last year the state paid $7,600 for badges and buttons, $6,990 for fish eggs, $2,500 for diplomas and commencement invitations, $28,126 for maps and blue prints, $28,000 for airplane photographs, $150,000 to Uncle Sam for postage, $5,000 for revolvers and machine guns, $64,400 for seeds and shrubbery, $177,000 for suppressing fires and posting fire notices, $31,500 for pipes and tobacco and $4,600 for toys and Christmas gifts.

Personal services, meaning salaries (exclusive of the classification of "labor," amounting to a million and a half dollars) cost the Michigan tax payers in 1932 the tidy sum of $13,619,745. Travelling expense amounted to more than $900,000, while for telegrams and telephones the state paid $168,198. Michigan appropriated $500 for the 1932 Spanish War Veterans convention at Escanaba, and, in 1931, contributed $35,000 to the national convention of the American Legion in Detroit.

Last year the State Aeronautics Board took in only the small amount of $417.49 and spent $35,573.28. Of this expenditure $2,765.02 was for travelling expense, but whether by plane or train is not stated. Telegrams and telephones cost $601.94, one plane was operated at a rental cost of $5,123.90, and the accident insurance item is listed at $2,108.39. The director received a salary of $5,000 and the inspector got $3,900. The Economy committee has recommended that the first salary be cut to $3,000 a year and the second to $2,400. Upper Peninsula airports were purchased for around $1,000 at Moran and Amasa, and $1,500 was spent in developing the field at Ewen. Some $25,000 is annually derived from the state aviation gas tax fund for aeronautic board purposes.

The State Board of Examiners for Barbers made a good showing, in spite of the safety razor advertisements. Journeymen barbers paid the state $5,093 in fees for examination as to their skill, and $34,427 for licenses to operate barber shops. Apparently all the barbers but one passed the examination, for the annual report shows a lonesome $2.00 credited to "refund, examination fee." However, the barbers' board had some heavy expense items, among them $2,635 for rent of an office in Detroit, an even $700 for postage and $572.36 for telephone and telegraph charges. Three barbers constitute the state board, appointed by the governor for three years. The salary and personal service bill amounted to $21,152 and the travelling expense to $9,156. There have been no Upper Peninsula men on this board since 1923.

The Upper Peninsula was fairly well represented on miscellaneous state boards and commissions last year, and the probable shift to deserving Democrats is not likely to much alter the comparative representation between the two peninsulas. Here is the 1932 roll call: Houghton: Dr. Robert B. Harkness, Advisory Council of Health; Marquette; Alvin Richards, State Tax Commission; Lee McGinley, Board of Accountancy; Lew A. Chase, Historical Commission; George E. Bishop, Tidewater Commission; Lee E. Garvin, State Crime Commission; Waldo T. Potter, Michigan Judicial Commission. Ironwood: Harold J. Waples, Public Utilities Commission; T. E. Thorsen, State Welfare Department; N. Albert Nelson, Examiners of Architects. Ishpeming: Edward G. Robbins, Board of Dentistry; St. Ignace: Prentiss M. Brown, (Congressman-elect from the 11th District), Board of Law Examiners. Escanaba, Dr. John J. Walch, and; Bessemer, Dr. W. E. Tew, Board of Registration in Medicine. Hancock: Peter Scholler, Examiners in Optometry. Menominee: Francis X. St. Peter, Mackinac Island State Park Commission. Calumet: A. E. Petermann, Taxation Commission; James McNaughton, Isle Royale Park Commission. Lake Linden: Adolph F. Heidcamp, Commission on Inquiry into Taxation. Crystal Falls: A. L. Haight, Board of Aeronautics. The Soo, Manistique, Iron River, Ontonagon, Newberry and Munising were apparently overlooked.

THEATRES

For sheer timeliness, no other picture produced in Hollywood can compare with Columbia's "Washington Merry-Go-Round," hailed in advance reports as a sensational film expose of what really happens behind the scenes in Washington political, social and diplomatic circles. The picture now comes at a time when the entire nation is discussing the Presidential campaign with more serious enthusiasm than at any time in the country's history. It is showing at the Delft Theatre.

Directed by James Cruze, that master director who made "The Covered Wagon," "Old Ironsides," "The Pony Express" and other films of lofty American motifs, "Washington Merry-Go-Round" has a splendid cast headed by Lee Tracy, brilliant young actor who has captivated picture audiences by his performances in "Blessed Event," "The Night Mayor," "Doctor X" and other films.

The powerful and dramatic story of a patriotic young Congressman's dramatic struggle against the political machinery of Washington was written by Maxwell Anderson, co-author of "What Price Glory". It was adapted for the screen by Anderson, Jo Swerling and Eugene Thackeray, who was Washington correspondent of the New York World.

Story About Use Of "Jumpers" On Meters Is Untrue

Rumors to the effect that several prominent citizens and business houses had been using "meter jumpers" as a means of reducing their electric power bills were branded as absolutely untrue by City Manager T. F. Kessler yesterday.

The maliciously false stories, which have been circulating about the city for several days, have worked a serious injustice upon those mentioned. The city manager stated emphatically that there was absolutely no foundation for the rumors, which came to his attention yesterday.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 30 years, and calomel's oldtime enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

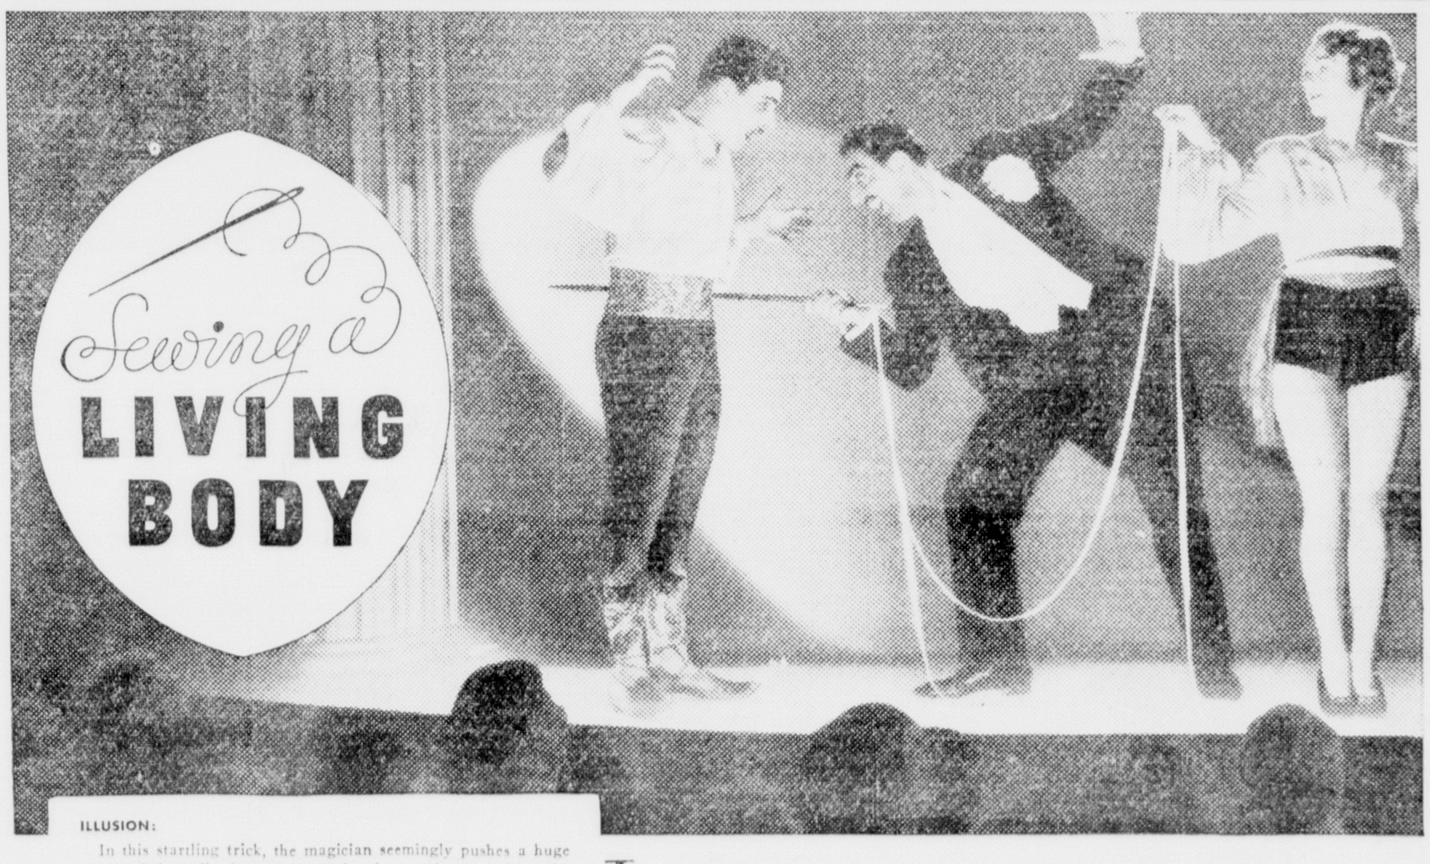

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

OUT OUR WAY By Williams

ILLUSION:

In this startling trick, the magician seemingly pushes a huge threaded needle through the body of an assistant, pulling the needle out the other side, followed by the thread.

EXPLANATION:

Under the clothes of the victim is a pipe, extending around one side of his body from front to back. The needle, which is flexible, is inserted in the front end of the pipe, is carried around the body and emerges from the pipe in back. This operation is performed so quickly that the audience does not notice that the needle and thread are momentarily shortened during the act.

CAMELS

It's fun to be fooled— ...it's more fun to KNOW

We like tricks...but we prefer to keep them out of business.

Here's one that's interesting...The illusion that by some obscure magic certain cigarettes are "COOLER" than others.

THE EXPLANATION: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes burn slowly. They're cool. Parched, dry cigarettes burn fast. They're hot.

Camels are carefully wrapped in moisture-proof cellophane...in the famous, air-tight Humidor Pack. Camels are cool because they're fresh.

A cigarette blended from choice non-irritating tobaccos also gives a cooler effect than one that is harsh and acrid. The finer the tobacco the less irritating it is, and therefore the "cooler."

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why Camels are cool and mild, non-irritating—full of flavor. This is why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made. It's the tobacco that counts.

Keep the famous welded Humidor Pack on your Camels. It assures you a fresh, cool smoke.

Mrs. Roosevelt And Mrs. Garner Talk Over Jobs

Washington, (AP)—A school teacher and a secretary, both fond of their jobs, got together in Washington and talked over the problem of what to do about those jobs after March 4.

The teacher, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who earlier called alone and on foot at the White House, which is to be her home for the next four years, will have to give up her job March 1.

But she told Mrs. John N. Garner she saw no reason why the latter should not go right on being her husband's secretary even after he is vice president.

They met at the Mayflower hotel shortly before Mrs. Roosevelt walked to the White House to look over, at Mrs. Hoover's invitation, the second floor rooms that the President and his family use as living quarters.

After a swift and uneventful walk, during which no one recognized her, Mrs. Roosevelt dodged through the traffic across Pennsylvania avenue and swung briskly up the long curved driveway to the executive mansion.

She stayed an hour, chatting with Mrs. Hoover, conferring with members of the White House staff, and inspecting the second floor, which she had not seen since she visited the place as a girl, while her uncle, Theodore Roosevelt, was president.

She left on foot, but picked up a taxicab at the corner. After glancing at her watch and discovering she was late for an appointment with Col. U. S. Grant, 3rd, head of the governmental department that has charge of the White House and its furnishings. She had declined a White House automobile bearing the presidential seal which waited outside for her.

Winter Colonists Stir Palm Beach To New Activity

Palm Beach (AP)—Surprising the calamity howlers who had forecast a slump here this winter, many well known figures of American and European resort life have come back and launched another season in traditional Palm Beach fashion.

Harold S. Vanderbilt, Prince George of Russia, Mrs. Mary Duke Biddle and others of that Philadelphia family, the Phippses of Long Island, Mme. Louise Homer, Margery Durant, the aviatrix—and others already have made their appearances at the clubs, beaches, golf course and polo field.

Homes Improved

More of the villa owners came down earlier than usual, apparently on the theory that it costs no more to occupy your house in Palm Beach than your house in New York or Chicago.

Some of the regular winter colonists also have spent large sums in months past on new houses or additions to old ones for occupancy this winter, among them Byron Chandler, millionaire globe trotter who has reared a great "Jamaican farmhouse"; Harry Oakes of Niagara Falls, Ont.; O. N. Tavender, Chicago, and George Jessel, the comedian, who has bought a site for a winter residence.

Hotels Ready for Business

Whether the hotels, clubs and apartments will draw their usual quotas of guests, remains speculative since some of the leading centers of fashionable activities are just getting away to a start after New Year's opening parties.

Failure to open the smart Royal Poinciana hotel had cast some gloom over the season's prospects, but this is partially offset by the prospective opening of the Alba, $7,000,000 hotel of boom-time vintage, dark last year.

While the social nabobs are reputed to be spending comparatively little, the usual whirl of teas, dinners and dances is gathering momentum, the only apparent departure from former customs being that most of such functions are held in homes, just at present, and fewer at the clubs.

Many Notables Expected

Noteworthy winter residents either here are expected include: Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia, and Mrs. E. F. Hutton of New York, whose homes are showplaces of the island; Major Barclay Warburton and Miss Mary Brown Warburton, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, Chester, N. J.; Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, Newport; Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Dodge Sloane, New York.

Society columns also mirror the doings of a younger set that includes Miss Gloria Baker and George and Alfred Vanderbilt, children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minot Amory, New York; Frances Drexel Munn, daughter of Charles A. Munn of London; Randolph and David Hearst, sons of William Randolph Hearst, and Jeffry Roche, son of Arthur Somers Roche.

Florida's popular pastime, diamond ball, is claiming devotees among the young sons of the rich, with sail fish expeditions, beach and sun bathing, dog racing and weekly boxing matches drawing their patrons.

Rev. Clayton Will Be Speaker at Army Services Tonight

Guild Comedy Skit Highly Successful

"Fur and Warmer," a one-act comedy skit, was presented by the Little Theatre Guild between screen performances at the Rialto Theatre Sunday night and was enthusiastically received by a large audience. The play marked the second public performance of the guild in recent weeks. Both were highly successful.

The plot revolved around the attempts of a country lass to impress, by means of lavish entertainment, her visiting city friend, the daughter of wealthy parents. A bridge and tea is arranged for her and complications follow when four male friends invited to the event all try to utilize one fur coat (by means of window manipulation) in an endeavor to appear well off. The visiting miss uncovers the deception and when the boys depart, rather embarrassed, lets Gretchen know that she has come to the country for rest and quiet and for relief from such entertainment, of which city life was just one continual round.

Several enjoyable organ solos were presented by Miss Viola Foster before the raising of the curtain.

In the cast were Vivian Norton, Jane Neveaux, Ruth and Irene Kee, Dick Hammond, Howard McDonald, Martin VanDonsel and Victor Blomstrom, Jr. Direction was by Helen Aslett.

LOCAL SCHOOLS FACE PROBLEMS

Tax Limitation Has Caused Serious Situation Says Watson

The seriousness of the situation that faces the Gladstone public school system because of the recent adoption of the 15-mill property tax limitation amendment was graphically revealed by Sup't A. R. Watson in a talk before the Rotary club yesterday noon, in which he pointed out that income to be derived from present revenue sources would only be sufficient to operate the schools for about five months of the coming year. Solution to the problem must come from legislation which will provide a new source of revenue, he said.

In opening his talk, Sup't Watson dwelt on reasons for the increase in school costs during the past 30 years, but showed that this increase was only in keeping with other expenditures.

In Gladstone, for the past 10 years, approximately $80,000 has been used annually for operation of the public schools, the speaker stated. This does not include debt expense. This revenue is derived from three sources, direct taxation, primary school money and Turner Bill money.

Authorities are pretty well agreed, Mr. Watson stated, that the Turner money is a thing of the past, as with only a 15-mill total and with the city, county and state each coming in for part of it, it is not logical to believe that the state would get the lion's share of it, or 10 mills that is required by the Turner bill.

This, he said, would strike the worst blow as it cuts off from $21,000 to $24,000 which has poured into the school fund coffers annually for the past three years.

Several factors were pointed out as having some effect on the primary school money, and the amount which will probably be forthcoming from this source will be reduced from 25 to 30 per cent during the coming year, it is anticipated. Whereas in years past, between $25,000 and $26,000 has been received annually, a cut to about $18,000 is seen.

All Sources Cut

As to direct taxation as a source, little can be expected there because of the limitation amendment. Last year about $55,900 was certified from this source, but it was only through the use of the Turner money that the amount was this low as in years previous to the receipt of this aid between $70,000 to $72,000 was certified.

How the new limited tax will be apportioned is not definitely provided for by law, and there are many speculations as to the amount the schools will receive, Sup't Watson said. If the former ratio was used, the local schools would receive about $15,000 and this would be the top figure, not a conservative estimate. The state superintendent of schools figures that five mills which would yield about $11,000 will probably be the figure, while other school officials believe hhat the school figure will be six mills which would bring in about $13,000.

With the Turner money cut off but two sources remain, the primary school money and the direct taxation and this would not total over $32,000, the speaker stated. Doubling of property assessments would help but little as this would add but $12,000, giving a total of $40,000 to $42,000.

With approximately $80,000 necessary annually for operating expenses, the amount which would be coming from old sources would run the schools for only about five months of the year and then, only if the strictest economies were practiced.

If education is not to be retarded, he said, some new revenue legislation must be adopted and put into operation immediately.

Motorists Have Narrow Escapes In Odd Accidents

Two Delta county motorists had narrow escapes from death when they figured in accidents during the week-end.

Otto Larson barely averted going over the edge and down the bluff Sunday when, as he rounded the turn at the top of the South Hill the car skidded on a sheet of glary ice. A bunch of birch trees finally stopped the front end and the safety cable caught a portion of the machine, but not until one wheel had gone over and the auto was just balanced on the edge of the hill.

Had it gone a few feet further, it would undoubtedly have rolled to the bottom of the bluff. Utilization of a wrecker of a local motor company with derrick and city trucks anchored by cable to secure positions was necessary before the auto could be released from its precarious perch. Damage to it was estimated at $100.

Milton Larson was the other figuring in an accident his auto dropping through the ice on the bay near the crack about a half mile out from Terrace Gardens intersection on US-41-2, Sunday night. The auto sank in about five feet of water, Larson getting out before it went down. It was removed from the bay yesterday.

THEATRES

Marlene Dietrich's latest starring picture, "Blonde Venus," which opens at the Rialto Theatre tonight, will continue showing there through Thursday.

The picture, directed by Josef von Sternberg, who discovered the glamorous star three years ago, and has been in charge of production of her four previous English-language films, presents her in the role of a woman who, to save her husband's life, accepts the love of another man.

At first, cold-blooded about the proposition, she soon finds she is in love with her benefactor. Her love for her young son, however, binds her to her husband. When her husband discovers the situation, he orders her from their home, and she is compelled to make a decision that leads to a highly dramatic climax.

Herbert Marshall, noted star of the dramatic stage, plays the role of the husband, while Cary Grant, promising young screen player, is the lover. Dickie Moore is the son.

Dietrich, the golden, exotic—more glamorous—more entrancing than ever!

H. STEFENSEN DIES YESTERDAY

Respected City Pioneer Succumbs to Lingering Illness

Death summoned another of Manistique's early pioneers yesterday morning at two o'clock when Hans Steffensen, 71, a resident of this city for over half a century, passed away at his home, 609 Arbutus avenue, following a lingering illness of two years duration. Two weeks ago his condition became acute.

His death is deeply mourned by his many friends and associates. Quiet and unassuming, he was never known to have spoken ill of anybody. Despite his retiring nature, he made many friends through his sterling character.

The remains are being prepared for burial at the Gunnarson & Kefauver mortuary. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home, 609 Arbutus avenue, with Rev. Joseph Grosa, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

BOWLING NOTES

The Browns continue to be one of the toughest teams to trim in the Elks' bowling league, and remain in possession of first place by virtue of a clean sweep in their series with the Giants. This week brings the Yanks in conflict with the leaders, the Yanks holding down second place with only one game behind the champs. The ace in the second half is starting off with a more even balance among the teams from first place down.

Tony Buesh leads the individual bowlers by a wide margin and has a seven pin lead over his nearest rival, Quick, Remell, and Graphos are staging a pretty contest among themselves for second place with Graphos only one pin less.

Reviewing the bowling during the past week, the Browns gathered in most pins and wound up the evening with a team average of around 180. The Cubs were not far behind and gave the Rexalls a trimming by taking the long end of the series. Roberts, Quick, and Tom Bolitho captured averages over the 190 mark.

The schedule for the week is as follows:

Tuesday Tigers vs. Rexalls.

Wednesday Lions vs. Cubs.

Friday Southpaws vs. Paper Makers.

The average of the first ten in the Elk's bowling league:

T. Busch, 185; Quick, 178; Remell, 178; Graphos, 177; Prine 175; McNamara, 171; E. Busch, 170; Farley, 170; T. Bolitho, 169; Stamness, 169.

Rev. Arthur Glenn, of Cadillac, the state reporter for the Swedish Baptist state convention, visited in the city Sunday and addressed the members of the county infirmary while here.

William Cook, Judson Hollenbeck and Charles Hopkins motored to Escanaba Saturday.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Jan. 30 (AP)—Stocks were quietly firm today in the dullest trading since last October 31.

The market, obviously awaiting dividend announcements scheduled for later this week, was sustained in its vigil by another moderate rise among rail stocks.

Also, the hope that springs eternal probably caused traders to look for a reduction rather than complete omission of the U. S. Steel preferred disbursement at tomorrow afternoon's meeting; Wall Street learned last week that some change was coming, though its extent was left a matter for conjecture.

Markets were unperturbed by the fall of two European cabinets. Hitler's accession to the Reich chancellorship was accompanied by reactions in German bonds and an easy mark, but there were no other noticeable repercussions to an event which a year or more ago was anticipated with uneasiness by the financial community. Europe's internal politics, even though it may appear at times to overlap international boundaries, has ceased to exert much influence here.

U. S. Steel Steady

Railroad stocks made a creditable showing, with New York Central, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson up from minor fractions to 2 points. Canadian Pacific also picked up a point. Carriers have been giving the market most of its support over the past week.

U. S. Steel shares closed steadily. The preferred, after a small early setback, was up half a point net while the common finished unchanged. Bethlehem sagged slightly, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Harvester, Case, American Telephone, National Dairy and several others bettered themselves slightly. General Motors, whose dividend meeting comes Wednesday, closed with a small gain. Borden was steady. Standard Oil of New Jersey drifted off for a time but hardened: Wall Street is wondering whether the usual extra payment will be voted this week. Tobaccos firmed toward the close. Sales totaled 476,885 shares.

The business news budget was limited to routine reports. Steel production, it seems, has made its fourth consecutive weekly increase, representing a total recovery of about 20 percent from the holiday low. Woolworth's 1932 earnings, equivalent to $2.27 a share of capital stock, compared unfavorably with a year ago, but the comparison was influenced by deductions for foreign exchange losses.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Jan. 30—Stimulated by reports that an upward leap of wheat prices 70% her along in the season was predicted by British shipping advisers, breadstuffs here advanced today.

British trade authorities were represented as having come to a conclusion that during the present year the world stocks of wheat would be greatly reduced, and that supply and demand would approximate more nearly to economic adjustment than had been the case for a long time. Also strengthening influence was that Washington official advices indicated European wheat consumption had not been curtailed to any large extent because of high import duties of various countries.

Wheat closed firm, 1-8 to 3-8 above Saturday's finish; corn unchanged to 1-8 lower; oats 1-8 to 1-4 off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

Contributing to an upward trend of wheat values, after some hesitancy at the start, were assertions that the Canadian wheat carryover this season promised to be only 52,600,000 bushels, and that United States supplies in the crop year 1933-34 would be little if any beyond home needs. A decrease of 1,751,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply total today reduced the aggregate stock to 153,649,000 bushels, compared with 204,298,000 a year ago.

New York, Jan. 30 (AP)—Despite the weakness of German dollar issues, following the appointment of Adolph Hitler to the chancellorship of the Reich, the bond market today maintained a cautious but fairly firm tone.

Trading volume was considerably under that of recent weeks, as the speculative element and most investors sought seclusion on the side-lines while they attempted to interpret European political developments. Sales totaled only $8,900,000, par value, but the average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced one-tenth of a point.

Although the utilities and industrials showed some hesitancy, a number of gains ranging from fractions to a point or more in the rail section helped to keep the market on an even keel. The United States government department was quiet and slightly irregular.

German obligations slumped at the opening upon the announcement of Hitler's ascension to the seat of power. A number of them rallied moderately later, but final quotations showed losses of fractions to as much as 5¾ points in government, state, municipal and corporate issues. Polish bonds also reflected the German political upheaval by exhibiting a heavy tone. On the other hand, French bonds improved fractionally in the face of cabinet difficulties at Paris.

Moving picture company bonds were still soft, although they closed above their lows of the day. Most of the oils were lower and United Drug 5s and United American Biscuit 6s were under pressure.

MANY ATTEND CHURCH EVENT

benefitted mankind, all progress, whether religious educational or mechanical, had come as the result of dreams or visions, and alluded to this house of worship as an example.

The fine banquet menu was prepared and served by the church Ladies' Aid society under the direction of Mrs. Al Hebbard and music was furnished by the Sunday School orchestra directed by Miss Viola Foster.

A program of delightful numbers preceded the evening's address. It consisted of a vocal solo by Noble Swenson, a reading by Mrs. C. W. LaFaver, a vocal solo by Mrs. W. H. Bainter, instrumental selections by Wallace Cameron, a vocal solo by Mrs. Conan Fisher, an orchestra selection, a vocal solo by John Speare and an instrumental selection by Robert Haskins.

"The subject of dreams has occupied the minds of many learned, as well as unlearned people, and many attempts have been made to explain why human beings dream," said Rev. Hammar. "Dreams have had a prominent place in the lives of many of the men and women spoken about in our Bible," he continued. Joseph, of whom our text speaks, dreamed that he saw himself and his brothers binding sheaves of grain, and that the sheaf which he was binding stood up and his brothers' sheaves bowed down before it.

Joseph, the husband of Mary, the Mother of Christ, was warned in a dream to take his wife and the Christ child and flee into Egypt, because King Herod desired to kill the child. Joseph was obedient to the vision of the night and thus saved the Christ from destruction. Pilate's wife sent to Pilate, on the day of Christ's crucifixion, saying to him, "Have thou nothing to do with this just man, for I have suffered many things this day, in a dream because of him." The Apostle Paul was visited in the dead of night by an angel of the Lord, who assured him that the crew of the vessel, on which he was being taken to Rome, would not perish in the storm that raged on the sea.

Dreams of the night, I say, have played a large and strange part in the lives and experiences of many people, but it is not of such dreams nor of such dreamers that I am to speak this evening. Night dreamers may have their place in the world, but it is the day dreamers and day-dreamdoers who are transforming the earth.

Now the first point that I wish to make is that mankind has progressed along its various lines of endeavor, because someone has dreamed a dream and dared put his dream into action. The world owes a great debt to the dreamers, because it is through them that mankind has won its advances. The human race has progressed, because certain people have had visions in which they saw the outline of something which the world needed. Take two or three instances of this fact.

The clothes that you wear have been sewed or stitched on a machine that we know as a sewing machine. For years before the sewing machine was invented, everything that was sewed was sewed by hand.

Women would still be sewing by hand, had not someone dreamed a dream of a machine that would take away the toil of sewing. Elias Howe dreamed a machine by which clothes might be stitched and he worked faithfully on this dream until he had the machine perfected. I am told that he had many disappointments and many setbacks but that he kept steadily on. And, as Howe dreamed the sewing machine, so other men have dreamed other machines which have been a boon and a blessing to the race.

Take another example of a dreamer who has benefited mankind and to whom mankind owes a debt which it never can fully repay. During the latter half of the nineteenth century Dr. Louis Pasteur worked night and day in his laboratory, experimenting with various serums for the prevention of disease. Dr. Pasteur dreamed a dream, and it was this. He saw a world in which mankind would one day be free from disease. He saw a world in which little children should no longer cry with pain and suffering, he saw a world in which men and women would no longer go bent under a burden of bodily ills. And the vision, which he saw, took full possession of him. It is said that Pasteur became so interested in his experiments, in his germs and bugs, that he forgot to come to his own wedding. His vision of a world free from disease captivated him. He gave himself to its fulfillment and lived for his vision. And because Pasteur dreamed this dream, thousands of little children, and men and women have been endowed with better health and a greater measure of happiness.

Or, take an example, one out of the moral life of mankind. Over in a little town in Palestine, there lived, many years ago, a young carpenter called Jesus.

Now this Jesus had a dream. He had a vision in which he saw a new world, and living in this world was a race free from sin. He saw a world which he called the "Kingdom of God." It was a kingdom in which men and women lived Godfearing, noble and righteous lives. He saw a world in which there was to be no wage slave, and no task master. He saw a world in which the roar of the cannon had forever been stilled, a world in which men walked along avenues of peace. He beheld in this dream humanity as one great brotherhood, living under the shadow of the God's, the Eternal Father's love.

Now who is there that would dare say that Jesus dreamed a futile and impossible dream? I know that there is still a great deal of sin in the world, I know that there is still a great deal of hate, and that men and women still go on living without God. But I shudder to think of the conditions which might have been, had not Jesus dreamed his dream.

It is the dreamer who has taken mankind by the hand and led him along the pathway of progress.

The second thought that I want to leave with you is this, no man or woman has ever made a worthwhile contribution to progress and to human life until he or she had first dreamed that contribution. Some people think that reality consists in the things that we see and handle. But reality consists of dreams and visions. These are the real things in life.

The things that we see and handle, are not the realities. They are only material manifestations of the realities. No one has ever contributed anything to human society who has not first dreamed his contribution.

If this be true, then we come to the conclusion that it is supremely important for men and women to dream. It is supremely important that people give themselves the chance to dream. The most of us are so busy doing trivial things, that we don't allow ourselves time to dream. Parties, dances, shows, meals, automobiles, clothes and a thousand other things are permitted to clutter up our lives, and steal our time. And our lives are poorer because of this. Our lives are humdrum, uneventful and fruitless because we don't take time to dream.

Do you know how one of the world's greatest poems came into existance. A man by the name of Thomas Gray dreamed it in a country church yard. Can't you get a picture of this man Gray out of the first verse of his poem? "The curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
The lowing herd wind slowly o'er the lea
The ploughman homeward plods his weary way,
And leaves the world to darkness and to me."

Gray gives us a picture of himself in those words, and is the picture of a dreamer. And his dream, "Elegy Written in a Country Church Yard" is a rich contribution to the beautiful that is in this world. His contribution has touched the souls of thousands of boys and girls, and men and women, and they have been better because of it. And as this dream has helped humanity so the dreams of all who have dreamed of worthy things, have helped humanity.

It pays to dream, it pays to be a dreamer. It is the dreamer who transforms the earth.

Let me close with this thought, dreamers have always been far in advance of their contemporaries, and because of this many of them have suffered persecution.

The Son of God dreamed a dream, and because of his dream, which were it put into practice would be man's greatest blessing, was put to death on the cross. And yet I say to you young people, and to you older people, take time to dream, dream about great things, "blessed is the dreamer for he shall transform the earth."

Seek Permit for Youths to Play Summer Ball

M H S A A NOW OPPOSES PLAN

Liberalization Is Urged To Permit Natural Development

East Lansing, Jan. 30 (AP)—Liberalization of regulations established by the Michigan High School Athletic Association over the participation of high school athletes in summer baseball will be asked by college coaches interested in stimulating interest in the sport.

John H. Kobs, Michigan State coach and secretary of the Michigan College Baseball Coaches committee, said today a request will be made to the association to permit high school youngsters to participate in summer ball if they do not receive pay. At the present time, he said, they are not permitted to play if any member of their team are paid.

Kobs said most high school youths are willing to play summer baseball without pay. The committee feels, he said, that their development is retarded by the present regulation which generally prevents their participation.

The demand follows answers to questionnaires sent by the committee to high schools.

The survey according to Kobs, has eliminated financial reasons are an objection to interscholastic baseball. Although this argument has been used by opponents of high school baseball, Kobs said costs for the diamond game were low in comparison with other sports.

In addition to Kobs other members of the committee are Coaches Harry Ockerman, Michigan Normal; Ray Fisher, Michigan and Judson Hyames, Western State Teachers.

Shamrocks Defeat North Town Hawks

Marinette, Jan. 30. (Special)—In a game that kept the crowd of 1,500 on edge as hockey was mixed with free-for-all mixing on the ice, the Marinette Shamrocks added another scalp Sunday when they defeated the Escanaba Hawks, 3 to 1, after three fast and furious periods.

After a scoreless first period Rettke took a'm near the opening of the second period and sent the puck into the net for the first counter for the Shamrocks. A few minutes later, Walker, Marinette wing, who was slamming away at the puck, sent the little rubber again into the goal where Hornblad, the visitors' goalie lunged out to stop it, but was too late in throwing up his hand.

The puck struck Hornblad in the eye and the net-tender went down unconscious from the impact. The edge of the puck had cut him both above and below the eye necessitating his removal to a doctor's office where five stitches were required to close the wound and only after the player had fainted a couple of times. His equipment was transferred to another player and the game continued.

Harding and Haslanger counted for Marinette and Anderson scored for Escanaba in the final period to bring the score to 3 to 1, as the visitors blazed away from all over the ice in desperate attempts to tally.

The Escanaba lineup included Hornblad, goalie; L. Beauchamp, Pittesman, defense; Turnquist, center; and R. Beauchamp, Anderson, Erickson, Taylor, and Hansen, wings. The Marinette team included Byrns, goalie; C. Bailey, B. Harley, Udeans, Berard and Rupert, defense; Harrison and Roosen, centers; and Haddies, Rettke, Walker, Hasslanger and Roosen, wings.

Traders On Curb Stick to Watchful Waiting Attitude

New York, Jan. 30 (AP)—The curb market began the new week today with prices holding all but stationary in extremely light trading as speculators were still content to adhere to their watchful waiting attitude.

The turnover for the session was only 90,000 shares, against 110,000 on Friday, and most price changes were limited to narrow fractions.

Oils stiffened a little in spots. Gulf and Humble were up fractionally. Standard of Indiana and Imperial were steady. In the mining issues activity cropped out in Wright Hargreaves, a Canadian gold and silver producer, the stock advancing ¼ to a price of 4. Lake Shore, one of the principal Canadian gold mining issues, lost a small fraction.

Utilities moved narrowly with a slight heavy tendency developing. Electric Bond and Share closed unchanged, American Gas & Electric and Niagara Hudson both off 3-8. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore sagged a fraction, and Commonwealth Edison a point.

Since Tulane scored twice on Southern California to be beaten 8 to 12 in the Rose Bowl game of 1932, only California and Washington have crossed the Trojan goal line in eleven games.

RAPID RIVER

AUTO THROUGH ICE

Rapid River, Jan. 30 (Special)—A sedan automobile belonging to Milton Bonz, Jr., of Masonville broke through the ice on Little Bay de Nocquet between Masonville and Garth point, Sunday afternoon, dropping into water about six feet deep. Mr. Bonz was driving the car at the time and was alone. He had been out to his fish shanty and was on his way to his home when the car broke through. Mr. Bonz tried to get out as the car was settling into the water but the ice and water prevented him opening the door. He succeeded in opening the window of the front door and crawled out onto the ice. The car was completely submerged.

Mr. Benz hurried to his home, changed clothing, and then organized a crew of men to lift the car out of the water. In order to attach grappling irons he had to use a row boat. Darkness came on and the work of rescuing the car from its watery berth had to be suspended. Late this morning the car was brought to the surface and out onto the ice. The car was quite badly damaged, especially the upholstery, cushions and ignition system.

LAVIOLETTE HOME BURNS

The home of Peter Laviolette located on highway US-2, a short distance east of the Ogontz river bridge, was totally destroyed by fire which occurred Friday evening of last week. Mr. Laviolette and his three children, and Mr. Olson had retired for the night. Sometime after midnight Mr. Olson was awakened by the crackling of the fire in his bedroom. The ceiling was all ablaze. He gave the alarm to the others. The upper portion of the house was in flames, and all that any of the occupants could do was to leave in their night robes.

The house and all of its furnishings were completely burned. It is understood that there was a small amount of insurance. The house was only recently built.

SPARTANS WILL OPPOSE GARDEN

Rock Quintet Hopes to Return to Form on Wednesday

Rock, Mich., Jan. 30—The Rock Spartans will try to break into the victory column again this week when they meet their old rivals, the Garden City team, at the local gym Wednesday evening.

The Spartans have displayed very poor basketball in their last two starts, losing to the Escanaba Rangers and the Gladstone Marble Arms. They have been hard at practice this week, however, and hope to return to their old flashy form.

Garden has a very formidable aggregation composed of a group of high school stars who have been playing together for several years. They have played the Spartans every year and the games have always been close.

The feature game will begin at eight o'clock. A preliminary will start at seven o'clock.

Football Coaches Look Over Michigan State Grid Post

East Lansing, Jan. 30. (AP)—Michigan state athletic authorities announced today that a number of football coaches will visit the campus to be interviewed with regard to the selection of a successor to James H. Crowley as head gridiron coach.

Chester "Chet" Wynne, coach at Auburn, was the first visitor last week. Ralph H. Young, director of athletics, said other coaches will be interviewed but declined to reveal their names pending their arrival.

Wynne was interviewed despite the probability that state will be unwilling to meet his salary demands. He is reported to be receiving $12,000 a year at Auburn. The salary Michigan State is said to be offering the next coach is $6,000.

Young said the selection of a coach may be somewhat delayed by "the long list of available candidates. There are at least fifteen men of the highest class available for the job," he said.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS By Laufer

Warner Predicts Big Things for Temple U

Philadelphia, Jan. 30. (AP)—Glenn S. "Pop" Warner sees big things for Temple University in the football wars of the next few years.

The "Old Fox," new coach at Temple, made his first visit to the university today since he announced last fall he would become tutor for the Owls.

Speaking for himself, "Pop" said he was as glad to come to Temple from Stanford, as he was when he went to Pitt from Carlisle.

"It's the college of opportunity for me," he declared.

"Conditions are favorable," he said, in a general review of prospects, "for developing Temple into a prominent contender for national football prestige. We should be able to tackle the biggest teams in the east within a couple of years."

"Pop" started a lot of rumors in local fotball circles as to his possible board of strategy when he takes over the gridiron reins at the Noth Philadelphia institution—but he sidestepped neatly all attempts to pin him to naming his two assistants.

The gizzled gridiron veteran said he felt somewhat tired because of the rushing around he has done since his arrival yesterday. He has recovered from a cold however, and he talked freely about the game.

After receiving a silver-plated, full-sized football from a group of 1932 varsity men, as a welcoming gift, "Pop" spoke of Temple's coming season.

"I'm going to supervise all spring practices of the Temple squad," he said. "We begin training about March 15. I'll drill the players for about six weeks with the help of my two assistants, whom I will bring to Philadelphia."

Football, he declared, is one thing in which the east and west meet on common ground. There is no difference between the west coast and eastern brand of the game according to "Pop"—and he ought to know.

"I don't think there is any difference between eastern and coast football," he said. "It is hard to tell between teams when they meet, because of the travel involved. When a western team travels east—or an eastern eleven west—the travelling squad is not in the best physical condition."

Newberry Pucksters Defeated At Sault

Newberry, Jan. 30 (Special)—The Sault Postoffice team took a hard victory from the Newberry Hockeyites on Sunday afternoon on the community rink, the score being four and three. Due to the difference in time the game was called an hour late but that did not dampen the vim of the fans, 400 strong, who waited many of them on skates. Perfect ice, a well-marked rink and beautiful weather added to the fun and plans are now on foot to have several games.

Newberry led until the last ten minutes, with a three to two score but the Sooites got busy and in five minutes made two goals. The last five was spent in defence only to hold the lead.

The management reports that games will be arranged as rapidly as possible. Teams from the Soo and from Munising are being invited and any other bunch in this end of the peninsula are asked to get in touch with Harry Fraser, Newberry, if a game is contemplated.

Uclans Drastically Curtail 1933 Sports

Los Angeles, Jan. 30. (AP)—Drastic curtailment of sports activities at the University of California at Los Angeles was announced today. Although the Bruins enjoyed a successful football season, officials said receipts were far below expectations, necessitating the curtailment.

Baseball was dropped entirely. Tennis trips, in which the Uclans were to defend their coast conference title, were cancelled. The track budget was reduced about 25 per cent, and a Stanford meet was cancelled.

FEAR PROVES COSTLY

Portland, Ore.—Fear of imaginary prowlers overcame discretion and led to the arrest of Mrs. A. W. Miller on charges of manufacture and possession of liquor. A loose screen banging in the wind frightened Mrs. Miller so that she forgot that she had a 50 gallon still and 40 gallons of liquor in her house. She called police, who quieted her fears by tacking down the screen, but who gave her something else to worry about by arresting her.

Rangers Defeated By Indians, 3 to 2

The Escanaba Rangers hockey players are asked to report for practice tonight to get into the best of shape for an important game scheduled for next Sunday. The Rangers tentatively have booked Iron Mountain for next Sunday.

Last Sunday the Rangers fell before the Gladstone Indians, 3 to 2, in an overtime game played at the North Escanaba rink.

Tonight's practice session will start at 7:30 o'clock. Previous to that Ralph Miller, Ranger ace, will coach two junior teams at the St. Patrick rink.

JOHNNY ALLEN NOW HOLDOUT

Ben Chapman Also Listed Among Those Not Satisfied

New York, Jan. 30. (AP)—Without any comment upon the reports that John Allen, sophomore pitching star, had joined the holdout ranks, along with outfielder Ben Chapman, the New York Yankees today disclosed the receipt of signed contracts for six members of the shock troops. Allen, it seems, wants a bigger raise.

The latest in the fold are Lyn Lary and Bill Werber, infielder, the latter recalled from Buffalo. Sammy Byrd, the golfing outfielder; Wiley Moore, veteran pitcher whose "sinker ball" baffled the Cuns in the last game of the 1932 world series; Walter Brown, big speed-ball pitcher who developed fast in the closing stages of last season; and Marvin Duke, resrul right-hander who won 23 games for Erie (Pa.) in the Central league.

The Giants added "Texas Bill" Shores to the list of those with signed contracts in the office strong-box. Shores, formerly with the Athletics, won 19 and lost 11 with the championship Portland club of the Pacific coast league last year.

BOTTOMLEY HOLD OUT

Nokomis, Ill., Jan. 30. (AP)—"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, first baseman traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Cincinnati Reds, said at his home here today that he had been asked by the Reds to take a $5,000 salary cut, compared with his 1932 pay, and added he would not sign for "that kind of a salary."

"The Cincinnati club has sent me a contract calling for $8,000," Bottomley said. "Thats just $5,000 less than I received from the Cardinals last season."

Bottomley is to be married soon.

PROBLEMS OF INFLATION

are the chief ways:

1—Printing more paper money and putting it in circulation without putting any more gold in the treasury vaults to redeem it on demand. No government has ever had enough gold in its vaults to redeem instantly every paper dollar in gold. Long experience has proved it isn't necessary, because governments are sure everybody in the country won't be wanting their gold at the same time. The U. S. government has usually had from 35 to 55 per cent of all its money in gold. The whole question here is: how much paper money can you issue for your gold without undermining people's confidence in it and causing them to refuse to accept the paper at its face value? It is here that opinions on this inflation plan differ widely.

2—Lowering the gold content of the dollar. The government now says that there shall be 25.8 grains of gold in a gold dollar. It could say 20 grains, or 10, and issue more dollars against the present stock of gold coin or bullion. The question here is tied up with the world price for gold bullion and other complicated factors. The probable effect of such a reduction on the value of the dollar is what causes difference of opinion here.

3—Remonetizing silver, the plan just shelved in the Senate. Under the present law, the government guarantees to give to anyone who brings gold bullion to the mint gold coin corresponding to the weight of gold tendered, regardless of the price for free gold used for other purposes. The gold coining value and the commercial value are about the same, however. The silver advocate believes advantages would follow similar "free and unlimited coinage of silver" at a fixed ratio to gold, usually 16-1, and regardless of the commercial market price of silver. It is assumed that such coinage and "pegging of the price" of silver by the government for coinage purposes on a definite ratio to gold would raise its price. It would also, obviously, enable the government to issue a great deal more paper money against deposits of silver, just as it now does against gold.

Aims Of Inflation

These are the three principal plans for inflation. But all the inflation plans have one aim: to raise commodity prices, enable debtors to pay off with cheaper dollars debts that were piled up when dollars were cheaper, enable the farmer to make a living from what he produces by boosting its price, increase the whole country's purchasing power, and thus revive business and industry as well as agriculture.

Now there is no doubt at all that if enough paper dollars are pumped into circulation, prices will rise. The whole question is how much will they rise, and how many paper dollars must you issue to make them rise a proper amount? In Germany and Russia after the war prices rose so high that the mark and the ruble became worth nothing at all. Midway between those extremes, say the inflationist, it is possible to reach a relationship between prices and dollars that will be just to everybody.

Opposed to inflation are Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, Senator Carter Glass, Professor Kemmerer and nearly all conservative economists and financiers. Among those in favor are John Maynard Keynes, Irving Fisher, Stuart Chase, Senator Borah and many western and southern members of Congress.

The inflationists say inflation can be controlled, admitting the great danger in any uncontrolled inflation. Their opponents say it probably can't be controlled. Some inflationists say their proposals would allow us to stay on the gold standard—an assertion usually denied by the conservatives. Congressman Patman gives figures to show that the government could issue $5,000,000,000 in new currency and still maintain a 40 per cent gold reserve. This also is denied with the reply that the gold Patman mentions already is earmarked for other purposes and that any such expansion would promptly drive all the gold away.

Going off the gold standard, as all large nations have except France and the United States, is supposed to have the same effect as inflation of the currency, since it cheapens the currency. It means that a nation's currency is no longer redeemable in gold.

TOMORROW: How new currency would be put in circulation.

LAYTON STILL CAN WIN TITLE

Defeats Kieckhefer in Three-Cushion Tournament

Chicago, Jan. 30. (AP)—Johnny Layton, the red-headed billiard star from Sedalia, Mo., tonight remained in the battle for the world three cushion championship by defeating the defending champion, Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, 50 to 33 in 47 innings. The setback wrecked Kieckhefer's chances of retaining the title he won a year ago.

The struggle for the title involves Welker Cochran of San Francisco, and J. N. Bozeman, Jr., of Vallejo, Calif., who were tied for the lead with five victories and one defeat, in addition to Layton, who tonight accounted for his fifth triumph in seven matches.

Frank Scoville of Buffalo, N. Y., finished up his work in the tournament today with a 50 to 46 victory over Clarence Jackson of Detroit, for a record of four matches won out of nine. The victory was accomplished only after 65 innings of shooting.

Allen Hall of Chicago also wound up his schedule, but with a defeat, losing to Tiff Denton of Kansas City, 50 to 40 in 42 innings, dropping him into last place.

Gorilla Jones Wins From Slaughter and Gains Recognition

Cleveland, Jan. 30 (AP)—Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., tighter, knocked out Sammy Slaughter of Terre Haute, Ind., in the seventh round of a 12-round bout tonight, thereby gaining the middleweight championship as recognized by the National Boxing commission.

Jones weighed 152 and Slaughter 156 1-2.

Jones won the title with a short but dynamic right cross to Slaughter's face.

As the seventh round opened Slaughter crossed his right to Jones' jaw. Jones sent a right to the ear, and then missed a right to the head. They traded right crosses. Then the Akron fighter fired another right cross which sent the Slaughter down for the count.

Harold "Muddy" Ruel, St. Louis Browns' new catcher, is the oldest active receiver in the big leagues. He'll be 37 in February.

ST. JOE PLAYS AT GLADSTONE

Upbays Conceded Edge in Game Scheduled for Thursday

The St. Joseph basketball team will play at Gladstone Thursday evening in a return game that has the earmarks of being a scorcher for the entertainment of the fans. St. Joseph won the first game played here by a score of 22 to 21.

Although they dropped one game to the Parochials, the Upbays will rank favorite over the St. Joseph team Thursday. Gladstone gradually reaching the best form of the season last week routed Rapid River, a team which in turn had handed the Brunellemen a neat trimming.

In addition two veterans, Brazeau and Harvey, were lost to Coach Brunelle with the last game as the result of the nine semester rule. Their places are being taken by McGovern and Beaumier.

While Coach Brunelle admitted that prospects for the Gladstone game could be brighter, he also stated yesterday that a defeat is by no means conceded and predicted his outfit would make a very creditable showing against the improved Upbays.

Amateur Cage Loop Will Be Organized

The formation of an amateur basketball league in Escanaba will be attempted Wednesday night at the Baptist church gymnasium. An eight team circuit is desired and all members are requested to attend the Wednesday meeting.

In two games played last evening the Psalmsingers defeated the Pot Shots, 26 to 13, and the All Americans won from the Herring Chokers, 24 and 14. Anderson and Valentine were the big scorers in the first game and Gunkel led the All Americans' attack in the second.

Chicago Has Best Chance For Fight

Chicago, Jan. 30. (AP)—Another stage of the ballyhoo in connection with the proposed bout between the two Maxes—Schmeling of Germany, and Baer of Livermore, Calif.—opened today with the arrival for a series of conferences, of Jack Dempsey, promoter, and Joe Jacobs, the German's manager.

Dempsey has the bout signed up, and is hunting for a favorable spot in which to stage it. Chicago, with a world fair to help out in the way of attracting customers, appears to be the choice, but until the Illinois boxing law is amended to permit 15 round contests, Jacobs is not likely to agree.

ROOSEVELT AND ADVISORS WORK ON PATRONAGE

a fishing cruise next Saturday.

But the cabinet gossip persisted strongly through the day. It brought up the names as "dark horses" of Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, for secretary of war; Archibold McNeil, of Connecticut, as secretary of the navy and Frank Murphy, of Minnesota, for secretary of agriculture.

There still seemed to be doubt about the Republican independent whom Mr. Roosevelt wants in his cabinet. The name of Senator Cutting as secretary of the interior still stood. There was some mention of Senator Norris, of Nebraska, as secretary of agriculture, also of Henry Wallace of Iowa, for the same post.

Surprises Promised

The office of secretary of commerce seemed to be a puzzler with Bernard M. Baruch and Jessee Straus, of New York, spoken of together with Henry I. Harriman, of Boston, the president of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

It seemed to be definite only about Senators Glass and Walsh and Mr. Farley for the cabinet, although some insisted it was "all fixed" for Miss Perkins, the New York state commissioner of labor, for the labor department office. With the whole country to pick from as a result of the sweeping Democratic victory in November, there is no sign that the president-elect is regarding geography as an elemental factor in picking his close advisers.

It is also clear that he is not worrying about this job of making the selections and is going to pull some "surprises" from the field of younger Democrats to fill out the cabinet structure around the veterans Glass and Walsh.

Gore, who is also a publisher of some Florida papers, is mentioned in the discussion for high office, possibly commissioner of internal revenue.

He will be host to the inner family of Democratic leaders at Miami next week while the president-elect takes his fishing vacation in privacy aboard the yacht of Vincent Astor, a distant relative. Farley, Walker, Flynn, Senator Barkley and several others will be members of the Miami group.

Mrs. Minnie Fatousch, 72, a resident of this city for the past nineteen years, passed away at 1:15 o'clock Monday morning at the family home, 203 North Nineteenth street.

Mrs. Fatousch had been ill for the past three months, as a result of hardening of the arteries, which caused her death.

The body was taken to the Allo Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and will be returned to the family home this morning at 10 o'clock. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Father Gerald Harrington officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Fatousch are three children, Abe, Lottie, and Mrs. Frank Bonamer of this city and five grandchildren. Mr. Fatousch passed away nineteen years ago, Mrs. Fatousch making her home in Escanaba with her children from the time of his death.

JAMES TRACY PASSES AWAY

Pioneer Munising Resident Succumbs to Cancer

James Tracy, 73, died at his home in this city, on central Superior street, Suncay evening at 8:30 o'clock, following a long illness of about two years duration, the cause of his death being cancer of the throat. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock from Sacred Heart church, Rev. Fr. Manderfield, Rev. Fr. Albert Pelissier of L'Anse and Rev. Fr. Stehlin of Gwinn officiating.

James Tracy had been a resident of Munising since the town was first started, coming here from Fayette in 1896. He engaged in business here, having a store on Superior street. For twenty years he served as justice of the peace, declining to run in 1931 on account of ill health. A few months later his health did not permit him to take his daily walks about town and he was compelled to remain indoors. For the past three or four months he was confined to his bed.

Mr. Tracy was born in Fond du Lac county, Wisconsin, and spent his early boyhood on a farm. Lumbering being one of the principal industries of Wisconsin at that time he started out at an early age to seek employment in the lumber camps and on the river. He helped raft logs down the Wisconsin river to the Mississippi and was fond of relating tales of those adventurous days. Quitting the rivers and woods he located at Spruce, Oconto county, Wisconsin, where he ran a general store. From Spruce he went to Fayette when the Jackson Iron company had its furnace in blast. Fayette was then a thriving community with a payroll of $25,000 per month. The company then did business with an Escanaba bank and the money to pay off the men was transported by stage to Fayette. In the winter time the trip was made across Little Bay de Noc, the Portage and Big Bay de Noc by stage. Mr. Tracy, when in a reminiscent mood, often wondered that in all the years the stage made trips never a holdup or robbery of any kind, comparing the early days to the present when he was seldom without a case of larceny or robbery of some sort during his term of office as a justice.

Mr. Tracy was a most upright citizen, a man of genial good nature, beloved by all who knew him. His death removes an old pioneer as well as a man honored and respected by all.

Work Progresses On New Hospital

Newberry, Jan. 30 (Special)—William Brown, state superintendent of the construction at the Newberry state hospital reports progress of the new receiving unit as only about three weeks behind schedule. This, he believes, is an unusual record for winter work. Weather has only slowed up the work to that extent as concrete and brick work can be carried on unless the temperature drops below 20° above zero.

Two floor slabs, the ground floor and the first have been poured, the latter being finished on January 19 and brick work is 70 per cent done up to the next floor. This brick work will be finished in about ten days.

All pipe lines, hot water, steam and return pipes are done, the state putting on a crew of its own for this work. There has been but little delay in either delivery of materials or of workmen although most of the mechanical labor had to come from outside. Mr. Brown estimates that 65 per cent of all the common labor is local but the masons, brick layers, pipe fitters and so on had to be brought in as there was little of that sort obtainable here. Most men of that type already have work.

With the coming of warm weather the work will speed up and the contract will be completed, with time to spare if present indications mean anything.

ICE HARVEST

The annual ice harvest is on at the state hospital. The ice is from Hamilton lake, a spring fed body of water about a mile from the hospital. Many people are going out to see the work which is of unusual interest, partly due to the unusually beautiful setting of the scene. The state institution used thousands of pounds of ice annually in its big ice boxes, most of which is garnered without the spending of a dollar as it is done with the regular hospital crews of farm and garden workers. C. P. West, state farmer, is in charge of the work.

NEWBERRY BRIEFS

Francis Rando, 16 year old high school student, submitted to an operation for appendicitis at the local hospital on Saturday. He is doing well.

Miss Nell Plaunt is spending two weeks with her sister Aletha Kerr. Mrs. Plaunt is the former Nell Kerr, of this city, now living in Sault Ste. Marie.

The second semester has begun at the local school. No change in the course of study since last year excepting that civics is now given for a full year instead of for one term. This change is to conform with a law passed by the legislature requiring every student to take a full year of civics before being allowed to graduate. Miss Sarah Bottrell is the instructor.

The Standard Bears of the Bethel Sunday school will hold their monthly party on Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown.

BROKE 12 YEAR RECORD

James Harper of the Newberry state hospital did not go to church on Sunday, being ill. Yes, it is news when Mr. Harper does not go to church for this is the first time he has missed attending for 12 years. He is a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal church and attends either at Newberry or at the community church at Bethel, which he was instrumental in organizing many years ago.

SERVICE BASKETS

Service baskets and the "Buy American" campaign will concern members of the Auxiliary of the American Legion for the present. The next meeting held on Wednesday will be the collection day for the service baskets for the disabled soldiers in Legion hospitals. Members are asking for all sorts of useful articles, such as tooth brushes, paste, shaving articles, handkerchiefs, wash cloths, cigarettes, gum, candy, or anything else that a disabled man needs or can use.

The "Buy American" campaign will be announced later.

RABBIT SEASON CLOSES TONIGHT

This Marks Last of the Series of Hunting Opportunities

The last of the series of hunting and trapping seasons which began last fall will end at midnight January 31 with the close of the seasons for taking rabbits and badgers. On that date all hunting and trapping for protected animals and birds will cease until October 1, 1933.

The rabbit season, which opened October 15 in the lower peninsula and October 1 in the upper peninsula, will end throughout the state with the last day of January. The badger season of Townline 16 closed January 1. Today it will close north of that line.

While there is no closed season for taking mink, they may be trapped only during the open season for trapping muskrats.

Asked to Report

With the close of the various seasons the department of conservation is asking hunters who took tagged birds or animals during the past fall and early winter to report their observations. Information of this nature will soon be compiled and the department is anxious to have as complete records as possible.

Information regarding marked animals or birds found should include the date, place and manner of recovery and the band should be sent to the game division, department of conservation at Lansing, unless the animal is released alive. If released, the band number should be noted and included in the report.

St. Francis Hospital

Donald Polkey of Wells, a medical patient, was dismissed.

Joan Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, Gladstone Route 1, was admitted suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

Miss Marie Greis is improving following a serious operation but her condition is still such that no visitors are permitted.

Stephen Murphy is improved in condition.

Patients dismissed include Joseph Menard of Hermansville, William Jermain, Agnes Trousil of Wilson, Mrs. Jesse Bellore of Nahma and Mrs. Antone Decker of Powers.

COW TAKEN FOR A RIDE

Ogden, Utah—Jim Hunter took a cow for a ride the other day, but Hunter's car suffered more than bossy did. Hunter was driving into town when he ran into a cow and picked it up with his bumper. The weight of the cow bent his headlights and radiator, but after a short ride bossy scrambled off her perch and rambled away unhurt.

U. P. Briefs

Plant Opening Delayed

Bessemer—Delays in construction work and the installation of machinery at the new sawmill of the Underwood Veneer Co., will postpone actual operation of the plant for at least month, according to M. H. Keenan, superintendent. It was recently stated by O. J. Swanson, assistant general manager at Wausau, that the mill would start Feb. 1.

Approximately 92 men were employed at the site on US-2 several months ago, the number dropping to about 60 as the work neared completion. Thursday 80 workmen, however, were actively engaged. Practically all of the delays have resulted because of the low stocks of manufacturers, who wait until definite orders for machinery and hardware and other fittings are received before making them.

Are Stealing Coal

Menominee—Complaining that thefts of coal from cars in the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad yard here have averaged a ton nightly and that thieves persistently raid the woodyard of the J. W. Wells Lumber company at North State and Lakeview streets, Police Chief Frank Parsek today ordered increased police surveillance to check the thefts.

Police in a squad car last night apprehended Victor Hendrickson, 38, and Alfred Hendrickson, 44, brothers, of 72 Russell street, Marinette, on a charge of stealing coal from a car in the St. Paul railroad yard.

Issued Bad Checks

Sault Ste. Marie—Dr. George Wight, 37, Sault, Ont., dentist, must serve 30 days in the Chippewa county jail because he passed worthless checks.

Arraigned yesterday on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, Dr. Wight pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve 30 days by Judge Ray Gillespie. If Dr. Wight fails to make the checks, totaling $23, good during the 30 days, he must serve an additional 30 days.

Robbed at Home

Iron Mountain — Waldemar Tauscheck, 819 West B street, agent for the Fleischman Yeast company in this district, last night related to city and state police a tale of how he was held up at the back door of his home and robbed of from $15 to $20. An investigation is being made.

W. D. Ferzacca, chief of police, got the call at about 9:30 o'clock last night. In company with Corporal Donald Hoadley and Trooper C. Gilmore, of the state police, Ferzacca went to the Tauscheck home and there found the young man in a great state of excitement.

Named Superintendent

Marquette—M. F. McCorkindale, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McCorkindale, former Ishpeming residents, who have been located at Roanoke, Va., for several years, has been made superintendent of the Clemens Gas company, of Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Mr. McCorkindale and his family are leaving Roanoke this week for Mt. Clemens. He was promoted to the Mt. Clemens position after having served as clerk and commercial manager for the Roanoke Gas Light company for some time.

Further investigation assured her that the young man had come from the factory. He was clad in overalls, a blue shirt and wore no necktie. His arms were smoothly tanned as if work kept him a great deal in the open.

Sheila wished that she could see his face but he was lying with his head toward her. His blond hair, which was almost gold colored, was the only part of his head that was visible.

Presently, without moving, the young man drew a package of lunch from his overall pocket and began eating.

The baseball game was evidently a good one. Shouts arose frequently and flying figures sped around the diamond in whirls of dust. Then there was a lull and another player came to bat. There was the sharp sound of the impact of the bat and the ball, a roar, and then a black speck against the sky. The ball dropped sharply within a dozen yards of Sheila's feet. It bounded and dropped again in a tangle of green vines. The crowd rushed across the field to the roadside. Sheila was wondering if she should find the ball and toss it back, thus protecting her solitude from interruption, when the young man rose to his elbow and, turning, faced her.

"Did that ball strike you?" he asked.

She shook her head. "No, but I wish you'd find it. I like it here and I don't want all those men tramping about looking for it. It's somewhere among those vines."

The young man rose, stamped about in the thick tangle, found the ball and tossed it well into the center of the field. Then he looked toward her again.

"You should be pitching for them," Sheila said. "That was a grand throw."

He laughed, settling himself once more on the mossy bank, this time facing her. "Maybe, you do a few things well yourself," he hazarded.

"Don't we all?" she asked gayly.

He shrugged slightly. "I don't know. However I do know there aren't many girls who can dance as well as you do, Sheila Shayne."
